

Lebanon Seeks UN Troops to Seal Frontier

Charges Own Forces Shelled From Syria In View of Observers

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

Beirut, Lebanon—Heavy firing broke out in Lebanon late today shortly after the government announced it had asked for an armed U. N. emergency force to seal off the frontier. President Camille Chamoun said he expected a big rebel push against his pro-western government at any hour, but it was too soon to say whether this was it.

The heaviest firing was heard in Ghandak Ghamik, on the outskirts of the Basta section of Beirut where rebel forces under former Premier Saeb Salam are entrenched in side barricades.

Shooting broke out in the post office area at about the same time and firing erupted and bombs were exploded in Ashrafiah, the Christian quarter in the eastern part of the capital.

Say Peace Menaced
Machine guns, mortar fire, dynamite bombs and small arms fire could be heard as the rebels and security forces exchanged fire.

Premier Sami Solh announced the request for a U. N. force "to completely seal off Lebanon's frontiers" with the Syrian province of President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

The request was handed to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld who wound up his on-the-spot survey here today and left for New York without making any comment on the situation.

President Camille Chamoun told a news conference the shelling of his forces from Syrian soil took place yesterday in the presence of U. N. observers.

Chamoun said U. A. R. action had made the rebellion a crisis menacing the people of all the Middle East and Lebanon could

Fund Raised For Heroic Truck Driver

Santa Barbara, Calif.—Six weeks ago the brakes on Russel C. Moore's truck failed at the top of a grade in this seaside city.

He could have jumped. But instead he stuck with it, shepherding the runaway through eight street crossings. Almost miraculously, he avoided pedestrians and autos. The truck crashed into a creek. Moore was killed.

The story might have ended there—a brief tale of an ordinary man who faced an agonizing choice and made a hero's decision.

Fund for Family
But Moore, 31, left behind him in death a wife and four children. A fifth is on the way. And the people of Santa Barbara, touched by his bravery and the family's bereavement, refused to let the story end.

The News-Press' account of the tragedy started a spontaneous flow of dollars that continues to this day and assures help for the Moore family. The total is nearing $13,000.

As one contributor put it: "If he had tried to save himself and jumped, leaving the truck uncontrolled, who knows how many might have been killed or maimed? There are lots of children in that neighborhood. He must have been thinking of that when he decided to stay at the wheel."

Life Terms For Slayers

2 Men Convicted Of Murdering Sturgeon Bay Man

Sturgeon Bay — Two men convicted of first degree murder in a 1955 shotgun slaying were sentenced to life in the state prison today by Circuit Judge Arold Murphy.

A jury found Solomon John and Alvin Polcen guilty Tuesday of the forest cabin murder of a Sturgeon Bay man. Judge Murphy denied defense motions for a new trial and directed that the life sentences start at noon today.

The body of Donald Crass, 44, was found March 12, 1955, in his cabin east of Sturgeon Bay. His pockets were empty, although Crass was known to carry large amounts of cash on his person.

The state contended that a shotgun owned by Polcen's father was found by the State Crime Laboratory to be the murder weapon.

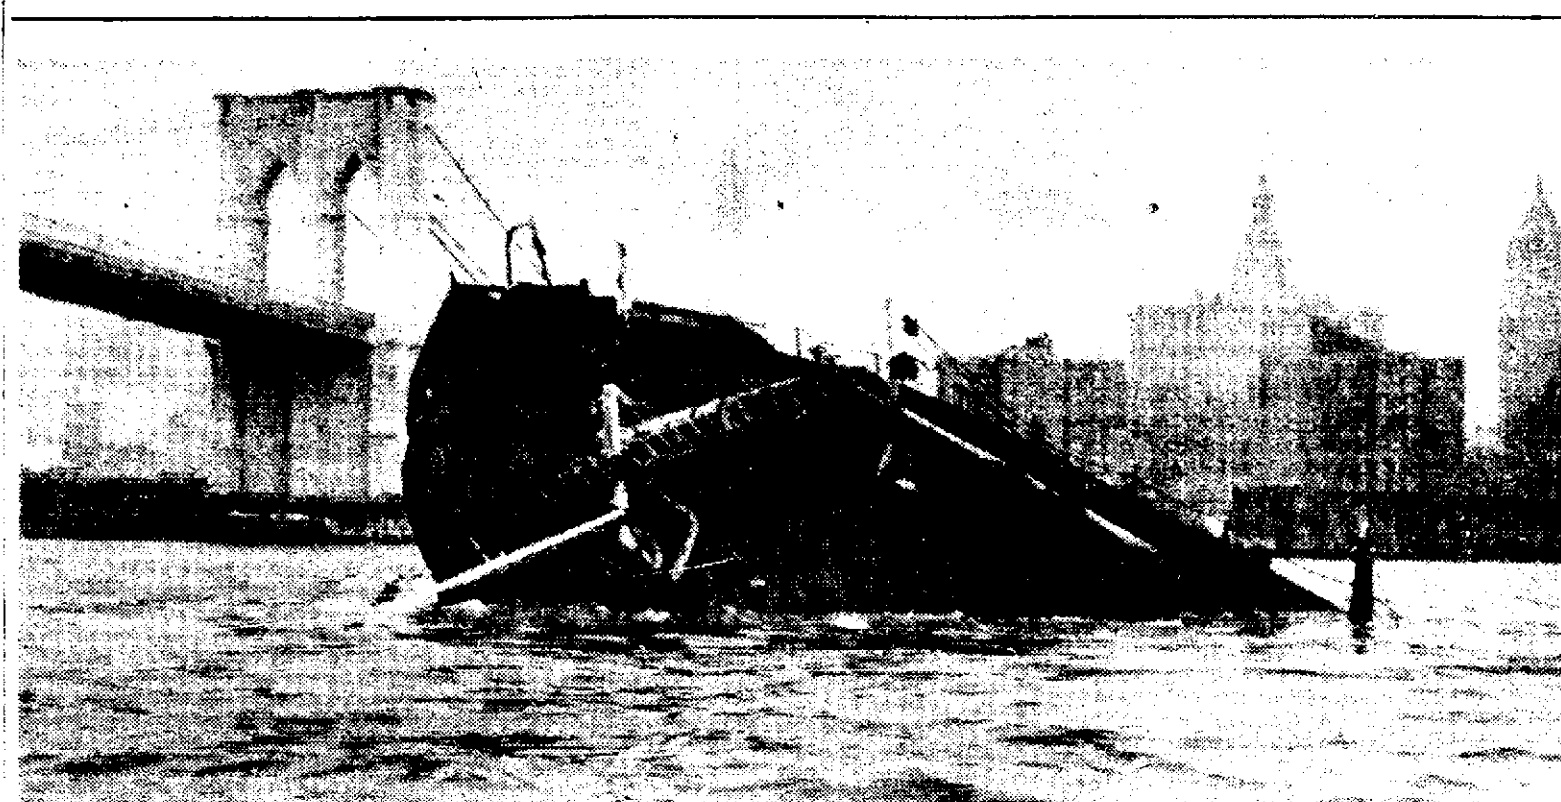

The defendants, both of Sturgeon Bay, pleaded innocent.

Indiana Democrats Pick Hartke for Senate

Indianapolis — Mayor Vance Hartke of Evansville won the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator from Indiana on the second ballot at the party's state convention yesterday.

The 39-year-old mayor's Republican opponent for the seat being vacated by Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind) is expected to be Jenner's protégé, Gov. Harold W. Handley. The Republican convention will be held here Friday.

Although a wide area of the stream was turned into an inferno of fire shortly after the collision, many crewmen plunged into the water screaming for help. Doves of rescue craft subway trains using the bridge, rushed out to pick up the swimmers. One New York City fireboat was disabled in the task.

The East river, which separates Manhattan from the city's near town of Queens on Long Island, is about a mile wide at the point of the collision. The tanker Empress Bay was carrying a crew of 37 men and 200 tons of oil.

Despite the hour, thousands of spectators were attracted to the river banks to watch the tanker men were the only ones left after the tanker sank and the parently escaped unhurt.

No Damage Done; Envoy Declares America Cannot Protest Peaceful Assembly

Moscow — A crowd of more than 1,000 Russians, some angrily shaking their fists and shouting, demonstrated today at the U. S. embassy.

About 150 Soviet policemen kept the crowd under control. One screaming Russian hurled a stone through an open window but there was no damage.

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson told reporters he planned no protest because "under our system of government we do not object to peaceful assembly and demonstrations."

The crowd included some youths in red army uniforms. The Russians converged on the building almost simultaneously from three directions in what clearly was a well-planned demonstration.

Charges Effort At Blackmail

Counsel for Rackets Probers Points to Publishers' Statement

Washington — Robert F. Kennedy, senate rackets committee counsel, today accused Publisher Max Raddock of trying to blackmail George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, Raddock promptly denied it.

Kennedy pegged the charge to a statement Raddock had read from the witness stand acknowledging he had hired a private detective last year to get information on Meany.

Raddock said he wanted to "investigate the truth or falsity of certain rumors concerning George Meany in the hope that more widespread knowledge of the complete picture might cause him to 'stiffen his back' in dealing with Reuther."

The reference was to Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers union.

Denies Defrauding Union
"That," Kennedy told Raddock, "is another way of stating you were going to blackmail him. . . blackmail him to stiffen his back. . . this is an admission by yourself of blackmail."

"I never would blackmail anyone," Raddock replied. He said there is nothing in his background to suggest that he might.

The exchange capped a public hearing at which the swift spoken Raddock denied he had defrauded or deceived the carpenters union on a book writing deal.

The committee is investigating allegations that Raddock reaped a $185,000 profit on production of a biography of the U. S. late president, William L. Hutcheson, and secretly split it with some union officials.

Raddock asked and received permission to read a statement answering what he called "the unfair treatment to which I have been subjected" in the committee's hearings.

Former Chairman of SEC Clashes With Harris at Quiz on Goldfine

Washington — The Goldfine-Adams investigation exploded into an angry row today climaxed by dismissal of a former securities and exchange commission head from the witness stand.

J. Sinclair Armstrong, SEC chairman in 1955-57 and now an assistant secretary of the navy, tangled from the outset with Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) of the house subcommittee digging into SEC handling of cases involving Bernard Goldfine, a Boston industrialist.

Armstrong Angry
The congress members want to know whether SEC pulled its punches and whether it was influenced by Sherman Adams, top aide to President Eisenhower and a close friend of Goldfine.

"I've been outraged" at allegations that SEC people "could possibly be influenced by anybody," Armstrong hotly told the congressmen.

Harris asked the former SEC chief to step aside and not reference to Adams and some personally into the case. Harris returned from another evidence he has on gifts to committee meeting the con-judges will remain locked in as attorney for Goldfine.

Pickets Block Traffic; Defy Union Orders

Detroit — Defiant pickets, facing union action to take over control of their local, blocked traffic at the Chrysler Corp. missile plant for a third day today.

A line of cars eight miles long at times backed up as United Auto Workers union members paraded before the plant, which produces army Jupiter and Redstone missiles.

A bottle was tossed into one car and some motorists entering the plant were poked by pickets reaching through car windows.

Macomb County Sheriff Harley Ensign had 40 men on duty and called for additional help in unsmothering the traffic pile-up. Some 20 officers from nearby communities responded.

Treasury Wants to Destroy Machine Guns

Oconomowoc — The treasury department wants to destroy 42 activated machine guns seized from W. David Tallmadge who stored them in the Oconomowoc lake mansion owned by his late mother.

Mrs. Marion Tallmadge died when her home was destroyed in a $100,000 fire on May 24. The son and his wife lived in other quarters of the estate.

The weapons were seized the first time by Waukesha county authorities who discovered them as officials probed for the cause of the fire.

Proposes Tighter Rein on Spending

Lake Geneva — An Eisenhower administration budget chieftain said today congress is not keeping a tight enough lid on federal spending.

"Congress by and large is upping appropriations requests, not cutting them," Robert E. Merriam, deputy budget bureau director, told the Wisconsin chapter of Young Presidents' organization.

He said congress "is ignoring well thought out suggestions made in the president's budget for discontinuing or reducing a handful of federal programs where the needs have changed, where private enterprise could take over, or where state and local governments rightfully should be carrying the load."

Infant Falls From Bed, Drowns in Mop Bucket

Nashville, Tenn. — A 1-year-old boy tumbled from his bed into a mop bucket full of water and drowned.

He was Albert Hurt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin E. Hurt of nearby Edenwood.

Mrs. Hurt, who is 17, said she was cleaning her 3-room house yesterday when she decided to rest for a moment.

When Mrs. Hurt returned to the room 10 minutes later, she found the infant head down in the bucket beside the bed.

Langer Beats Duffy In Dakota Primary

Veteran Incumbent Wins Chance For Fourth Term in U. S. Senate Without Backing of Republicans

Fargo, N. D. — North Dakota's colorful veteran Sen. William Langer won Republican nomination for a fourth term without party backing in a race with Lt. Gov. Clyde Duffy, the GOP endorsee, in yesterday's primary election.

Duffy conceded he had lost in a telegram early today in which he wished Langer the best of luck in the election. Both the Fargo Forum and Frank Forks Herald, which had supported Duffy, conceded the incumbent had won.

With 830 precincts of 2,332 reported, Langer had 24,463, Duffy 13,178.

Langer's bid for re-endorsement was spurned by the GOP state convention this spring in favor of Duffy, Devils Lake attorney.

Entering the race as an independent and relying on a following built up through more than 40 years in state politics, Langer made only a handful of campaign appearances. Although showing effects of a recent illness, the 71-year-old senator claimed his health was not a campaign issue. He read a statement from a Maryland hospital saying he had recovered completely.

Other Contests

On the Democratic side, returns from 785 precincts gave Raymond G. Vendel, state senator and farmer from Carpio, 10,857 to 5,301 in the senate nomination race over Anson J. Anderson, state public service commissioner.

In the GOP contest for two nominees for congress to fill berths being vacated by Reps. Usher L. Burdick and Otto Krueger, both Republicans, two party endorsees led. With 214 precincts reported, Orvis G. Nordhagen, Leeds businessman had 3,388. Don Short, Medora rancher, 2,486. Three others were trailing.

In the Democratic congress contest, Quentin Burdick, Fargo attorney and son of Usher, topped the field with 3,144 in 216 districts. State Sen. Ralph Dewing of Columbus had 1,470; Dr. S. B. Hocking, Devils Lake, 1,420, and Harold A. Morrison, Cavalier, 1,306.

In early trends turnout of Democrats appeared to top 1956 figures when Republicans outvoted them 2-1. In 214 precincts in the congressional race, a total of 9,958 Republican ballots were counted against 7,375 for the Democrats.

Davis Unopposed

Republican Gov. John E. Davis was unopposed in the primary. John F. Lord, Mandan attorney, led over Arthur Ford, Sr., Enderlin, on the Democratic side, 1,865-1,614 in 193 precincts.

In North Dakota, which has only two seats in the house of representatives, congressmen are chosen on a statewide basis instead of by district.

Langer's failure to get the GOP endorsement was largely an outgrowth of the 1956 North Dakota political upheaval.

The Nonpartisan League, a powerful state political faction which for years had been piloted by Langer, ended its long uneasy union with the Republican party that year to file its candidates in the Democratic column.

Langer pulled out of the league as a result, but the Republican party organization that emerged following the league shift is now dominated by anti-Langer forces.

Portage Teenager Gets Red Cross Honor for Saving Drowning Girl

St. Louis — The American National Red Cross today awarded a certificate of merit, highest honor given to individuals, to Dennis Berry, 17, Portage, Wis., for rescuing a girl from drowning and assisting in the saving the life of a second girl.

Barry rescued Marcella Baasch, 11, from Silver Lake July 31, 1957, and gave her artificial respiration until she recovered. He also helped give artificial respiration to Susan Bangs, a cousin of Marcella, who also had gotten into water over her head and was pulled out by Berry and his companions.

Nelson Attacks Right-to-Work Legislation

State Senator Says Thomson Should State Position on Subject

By the Associated Press

Gaylord Nelson, Democratic candidate for governor, Tuesday night called on Gov. Vernon Thomson to state his position on right-to-work legislation.

Nelson, a state senator from Madison, told a Democratic meeting in Milwaukee, "the governor has tried various poses as the friend of the working man, but he is the candidate of the party which has made the first overt move toward the 'right-to-work' law in this state."

Such legislation makes it illegal to demand union membership as a condition of employment.

Nelson declared that "instead of constructive proposals to provide a place to work, or of tackling the problems of industrial development, the Republicans come forward with a fraudulently named 'right-to-work' proposal for the purpose of creating disunity."

A Republican — Democratic clash was provided in Milwaukee as state Democratic chairman Patrick Lucey, Madison, and former GOP state chairman Philip Kuehn spoke at an industrial firm's citizenship class.

Agree on Adams

They differed on financial issues but apparently agreed that Sherman Adams should resign as President Eisenhower's top adviser.

On money matters, Lucey said Democrats have to depend for funds on volunteers who will ring doorbells.

Kuehn answered, saying the Democrats get major help from "the CIO and the union bosses."

Lucey said the election of Mrs. Vel Phillips, Milwaukee, as Democratic national committeewoman, caused only "turmoil of the moment."

The Milwaukee alderman defeated Mrs. Marguerite Benson, a veteran party worker of Milwaukee.

Kuehn said Mrs. Phillips was chosen "merely to get publicity," and called the action "callous and coldblooded."

New Soviet Note Agreeable for Geneva Meeting

Moscow — A new Soviet note to the United States indicates that as far as the Russians are concerned, experts of the western and communist world will meet on schedule July 1 in Geneva to discuss ways of policing a ban on nuclear weapon tests.

The Soviet note, handed to U. S. ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson yesterday, named the Czechoslovak and Polish members of the Russian delegation and said a Romanian expert also probably would be appointed.

The Western world also will be represented by scientists from four nations—the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

The Russians said they still were proceeding "from the view that the work of the experts conference should contribute to the earliest possible termination of atomic and hydrogen weapon tests by all nuclear powers."

The United States, in a note announcing the foreign members of its delegation, had repeated its stand that the Geneva talks would not necessarily lead to an agreement banning tests.

Wisconsin Physician Installed as AMA Head

Dr. Gunnar Gundersen, La Crosse, Says Doctors Have Role in Quest for Peace

San Francisco — A Wisconsin physician took over Tuesday night as president of the American Medical association, and spoke not of the major problems or accomplishments of medicine, but of its opportunity to provide leadership in the quest for world peace.

Dr. Gunnar Gundersen, La Crosse, was installed as president of the important AMA at the annual convention attended by 15,000 physicians.

The 61-year-old head of the Gundersen clinic touched only lightly on controversial issues such as socialized medicine, saying physicians have a duty to "bring weight to bear on the vital question of whether the individual or the state shall stand supreme in America's future."

In his inaugural speech, entitled "Physicians of the World," Dr. Gundersen said: "Medicine, like religion, speaks a universal language which passes all barriers of race, creed, color and nationality."

He took note of the pace of the modern world, its scientific complexities and the problems of physicians in keeping up with developments ranging to "space medicine," but said doctors, nevertheless, "should never forget their responsibilities to all humanity."

"We physicians have a unique opportunity to provide a spark of leadership which can help bring the world closer to the dream of world brotherhood," he said.

Medical Family

Dr. Gundersen, is the son of a Norwegian doctor and "never had any idea but to become a physician." His five brothers are physicians, and so are his two sons.

He went to a preparatory school in Oslo, Norway for three years. He returned to graduate from the University of Wisconsin after another three years, in 1917. He got his M.D. at Columbia in 1920 and served his internship at La Crosse Lutheran hospital, next door to the family clinic.

In 1951 he became chairman of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, and is a past president of the Wisconsin Board of Health and a former regent of the University of Wisconsin.

Wolfson Denies Wrongdoing With Stock

Financier Charged By SEC With Attempts To Manipulate Price

New York — A financier Louis E. Wolfson denies any wrongdoing in connection with stock of the American Motors corporation.

Wolfson, defendant in a civil court action brought here by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), said in a statement from his Jacksonville, Fla., office:

"Any charge or accusation of manipulation or fraud by reason of anything I have done is ridiculous and will be proved to be unjustified in due course."

Wolfson said he has not owned any American Motors stock for several weeks.

He was temporarily restrained yesterday from further dealings in American Motors corporation common stock. The SEC said the company was not involved in the case against Wolfson.

Temporary Restraint

Acting on a complaint by the SEC, Federal Judge Frederick VanPelt Bryan issued an order temporarily restraining the financier from further alleged violations of provisions of the Securities and Exchange act of 1934.

The SEC charged Wolfson had tried to manipulate the price of American Motors common stock through "fraud and deceit."

Bryan also ordered Wolfson to show cause tomorrow why a preliminary injunction should not be issued against a continuation of the alleged practices of fraud and stock manipulation. A preliminary injunction is a necessary step in obtaining a permanent injunction.

Wolfson, 48, started with a Jacksonville, Fla., junkyard. His personal fortune now is estimated at close to $100 million. Until recently he was said to be the largest stockholder in American Motors.

Depressed Price

The SEC said Wolfson or his agents caused statements to be published which depressed the price of American Motors common stock.

In its complaint to the court the SEC said Wolfson indicated in various statements last winter and this spring that he was maintaining his interest in American Motors when actually he was unloading his entire holding of the company's stock.

American Motors stock rose 87 cents a share to $12.50 on the New York stock exchange yesterday following news of the SEC move. It was the most heavily traded issue on the exchange.

Illinois Rackets Boss, Associate Subpoenaed By Senate Committee

East St. Louis, Ill. — Frank "Buster" Wortman, reputed rackets boss of this area, and an associate were subpoenaed yesterday by the senate rackets committee.

Special investigators for the committee handed the subpoenas to Wortman and an associate, Sam Magin, as they stepped outside an East St. Louis tavern operated by Wortman.

No date has been set for court appearances. The committee is scheduled to begin Monday an investigation of reported ties between the underworld and some equivalent of $8 million for labor unions.

A federal grand jury here is looking into the affairs of Wortman. Magin has been indicted on a charge of perjury as a repayment of another grand jury investigation.

City Officials Shocked By North Shore Request To Stop Rail Service

Line Petitions State Commissions Citing Rising Costs, Less Capital

Milwaukee — Officials of Wisconsin cities served by the North Shore Line linking Chicago and Milwaukee were "shocked" Tuesday night by the line's request for authority to abandon the service which joined the two cities 50 years ago.

The original company was organized in 1894, but at that time was little more than a local service in Waukegan, Ill. The line's financial troubles began in 1908 when it stretched along the Lake Michigan shore from Chicago to Milwaukee for the first time.

The firm announced Tuesday that it had petitioned the Wisconsin Public Service commission and the Illinois Commerce commission for authority to abandon all operations—including the 89.3-mile run from Chicago to Milwaukee. The line has an 8-mile branch line from Lake Bluff to Mundelein, Ill.

Costs Higher

In its petition the company cited rising costs and diminished capital reserves. Avery Brundage, chairman of the Susquehanna corporation, holding corporation which owns the electric rail line, said the road has been losing actual cash for some time and that reserve resources have been exhausted.

Milwaukee Mayor Frank Zeidler said he hopes the common council will declare an "affirmative policy to keep the line in operation." He said he will seek representation at hearings on the company's request.

He said abandonment of the line would be "an economic loss to the city," although he recognized "that some people living along the right-of-way are anxious to get rid of it."

At Racine Mayor Jack H. Humble said, "This is a shock to me," but added, "We'll appeal, of course." He said he planned to study the situation before making further comment.

Kenosha Mayor Eugene R. Hammond said:

"In view of the fact that we are in one of the fastest growing areas of the country, we are going to protest vehemently."

President of Italy Asks Anti-Communist To Form Government

Rome, Italy — A. Amintore Fanfani, a tough anti-communist, was asked by President Giovanni Gronchi today to form a new left-of-center government.

The 50-year-old Fanfani, a former professor of economics at Milan's Catholic university, is the leader of the Christian Democratic party. It led in the national elections last May.

He has been promised the support of Giuseppe Saragat's Social Democrats, an anti-communist splinter from the fellow-traveling Socialists, to form a left-of-center coalition.

Fanfani also is reported to have the support of the three deputies of the South Tyrol Volkspartei representing the German-speaking people near the Austrian border. This support would give him a bare majority.

He was expected to draw up a proposed list of ministers and report back to Gronchi next Monday.

Women Ask UN to Seat Red China

Another Resolution Protests Civil Defense Drills in Schools

The last batch of resolutions, including one urging the seating of Red China in the United Nations, was passed by the U.S. section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom Tuesday morning.

The women left the Lawrence college campus, where they have been meeting since Friday, Tuesday afternoon.

The Red China resolution contends "real progress toward world peace is impossible until the People's Republic of China has representation in the United Nations. The United States policy strains our relations with other countries and causes economic distress to the Japanese and other peoples of the world. It heightens the danger of inflammatory situations in Korea, Vietnam, the straits of Formosa and makes a travesty of any universal disarmament agreement."

Other resolutions supported establishment of a UN police force with its authority based on the moral force of world opinion, asked that an International Health Year be designated, urged the government to ratify five UN conventions dealing with human rights, asked universal disarmament and suspension of nuclear testing and urged the diversion of civil defense funds to peace efforts.

I really used my head today

I stopped waiting...bought a new Plymouth...and man, what I saved!

Sometimes it's smart to wait, sometimes it isn't! Take me. I was putting off buying that new car we needed. Then I dropped in at my Plymouth dealer's. It was the most profitable visit of my life.

I found I could get my choice of new Plymouths at prices a whole lot lower than I believed possible. PLUS a trade-in offer on my old car so high that I made 'em say it twice!

And still more! I saved a clean $140 on the Plymouth ride alone. That's famous Torsion-Aire Ride, Plymouth's top luxury ride. It's standard on all Plymouths (even the least expensive) at no extra cost... but you have to pay up to $140 extra for the top ride of the other two leading cars in the low-price field.

And Plymouth proved it can save me gas money by winning the 1958 Mobilgas Economy Run. (There's a new Fuel-Saver Choke that makes your gas buck go a lot further!) It proved it will save me still more money at trade-in time, with new Silver Dart Styling that will look new and bring more years from now!

Here's a beauty that's a money-saver. I'm a proud guy right now... and a whole lot of money ahead! See your Plymouth dealer.

Today's best buy...tomorrow's best trade... Plymouth

The Regional Planning Controversy

One of the best things that has happened to the concept of regional planning for the Fox Cities has been the opposition that has developed to it recently. This opposition has accomplished two things — it has brought regional planning down out of the clouds and put discussion about it on a bread and butter level, and it has made regional planning a subject of intense interest among a lot more people than heretofore. Nothing but good can come from these developments.

It is both natural and proper that municipal officials should look upon a new venture of this kind, in which they are asked to commit substantial amounts of their taxpayers' money, with questioning eyes. People are elected to run a city, a village or a town by the voters of that municipality only, and they must feel that their first loyalty is to those voters. Thus it is perfectly natural that a man like Neenah's Mayor Bell should ask, "What is this going to do for my city?"

And this question must be answered satisfactorily for all of the individual Fox Cities municipalities before regional planning can become a reality here. We think it can be so answered.

The fundamental fact underlying the regional planning concept is that the Fox Cities are one urban community — geographically, economically, culturally and socially. This is not something that has happened overnight. The interdependence of these cities, villages and towns has been growing for many years and will continue to grow in the future. If this were not the case — if the various Fox Cities really had little to do with one another despite their geographical proximity — then regional planning would indeed be impractical. It is because it is a fact that there is such a strong movement for regional planning here.

This leads, then, to the idea that we all have a stake in the region as a whole as well as in our individual municipalities, in fact the welfare of each municipality is inextricably tied up with the welfare of the region. It is, therefore, logical to develop planning on a regional level just as it is, for instance, logical for Neenah to plan on a city-wide basis rather than let each ward develop its own plan.

But, it has been said, a regional master plan will not solve the various planning problems the individual municipalities are facing. This is true — as we see it regional planning is not supposed to solve those problems (although the regional planning office should, and we presume would, act as a consultant in helping each municipality solve its own problems). A good city zoning law does not tell a man how to build a house, it simply tells him certain things he should not do, and the building code tells him other things he should do. The builder might think these rules silly from his own point of view, but they are designed to promote the welfare of the community as a whole. Similarly, a regional master plan would not tell Appleton, for instance, how to lay out its sewer system; it would simply point out certain things the city should avoid and certain other things it should accomplish so as to tie in with the master plan developed for the good of the entire region. (The analogy is imperfect in one respect: a builder must obey a city zoning law, while the municipalities have the option of conforming or not conforming with the regional master plan since the regional planning commission has no power to enforce its ideas.)

The regional planning setup was developed because the Fox Cities are made up of many individual municipalities, and they lie in parts of three counties. If, for example, they were all in one county undoubtedly we would have instead a county planning commission with, incidentally, a great deal more power. History played a mean trick on us in this respect, and the only way we can overcome this handicap (short of reshuffling municipal and county boundaries) is to work together. A regional master plan is the first great step in the development of that kind of cooperation which in the long run could mean so much to all citizens of all the Fox Cities.

'Educational Processes' and the Constitution

The order handed down by U. S. District Judge Lemley permitting the Little Rock school board to de-integrate (or is it de-segregate?) Central High School is difficult to understand, on either constitutional or "practical" grounds. The order permits the high school to become segregated again for two and a half years, which means the seven Negro students who attended the school this year and would have attended it again next year will have to return to an all-Negro high school.

Judge Lemley accepted the school board's plea that the presence of the Negro students in the school (originally there were nine: one was expelled, and one graduated in June) interfered with the educational process at Central High. This, we suppose, would be admitted even by the NAACP, but so what? The important point is that these students, under a decision of the U. S. Supreme Court, have a constitutional right to attend the school. Which comes first, "educational processes" or citizens' constitutional rights? As the Chicago Tribune comments, "Judge Lemley has worked himself into the absurd position of saying that the public interest demands the denial of the constitutional rights of citizens."

The order is even more mystifying when we consider the practical situation faced by the Little Rock school authorities. The school board admits that the principal reason educational processes were interfered with was the fact that extremist pro-segregation groups in the Little Rock area threatened violence on the school grounds, which in turn meant special measures had to be taken to protect the students, and these special measures (such as the presence of troops in the school building) made it impossible to carry out a "normal" educational program. Certainly returning Central High to a segregated basis can only encourage these extremist groups, and as a result they are likely to be far stronger and more arrogant two and a half years from now.

Does Judge Lemley mean to say that when people who don't like a law or a court decision threaten violence (thereby breaking the law themselves) the courts and school authorities must back down and let the violators have their way? That is the only way we can read his decision. Suppose a man were accused of murder here in Appleton, and a portion of the citizenry became so excited that a riot ensued and the accused man were lynched. If Judge Lemley's reasoning makes sense, we should thereupon change our method of treating such an accused person, and execute him immediately without benefit of trial since that is what the mob demands.

The decision of course, will be appealed and we hope the higher courts give it the treatment it so obviously deserves, in other words a sharp reversal. If it is permitted to stand then the mob will have had its way in Little Rock, the Constitution of the United States will have been trampled upon with impunity, and extremist groups throughout the South will be encouraged to use violence as their most effective weapon to delay or defeat integration.

The Back Seat Driver Has a Place

Unless a holiday falls on Wednesday it is likely to touch off a long weekend, bringing thousands of additional automobiles onto the streets and highways, and finally boosting the number of killed and injured far above normal.

Memorial day fell on Friday this year and took a terrific toll of dead and injured. The National Safety council estimated in advance of Memorial day that 350 persons would die in traffic accidents over the weekend, but the actual count was well above 370.

That should give a good idea of what to expect over the Fourth of July weekend since the holiday again falls on Friday. The weekend will be of the same length, but conditions in Wisconsin may be somewhat more dangerous since it is later in the season and more tourists will be in the state, or coming in, for the Fourth.

There is not much the motorist can do about the situation except follow to the best of his ability the rules of the road and the laws of the state. The legal driver is the safe driver. He is not immune to accidents but he is in the best position possible for survival.

As a matter of fact the American motorist is a reasonably safe driver. Hundreds of thousands of them drive on the highways daily for years without a single accident. It is the tiny minority that figures in the accidents, and according to the American Automobile association the average American driver has an excellent record for safety on the basis of accidents per million miles of driving. While the total number of accidents continues to increase, it is due to more cars and more miles driven.

A continuing effort is being made to build safety into automobiles and into highways and to teach safety to drivers, with good effect according to the experts who watch such things. But those are long-term efforts which are not likely to change conditions much between Memorial day and the Fourth of July. However, the AAA has a suggestion which may save many lives over the Fourth. It is intelligent back seat driving.

Intelligent back seat driving does not include distracting exclamations about the scenery or nagging at the driver. It does call for quiet, careful suggestions relative to road signs, upcoming changes to different highways, and careful mention of anything the driver needs to know which he may not have noticed. The good back seat driver will keep current on the road map and supply the driver with any important information he may need. With a good back seat driver the front seat driver should have no occasion to take his eyes from the road ahead or his attention from the task at hand.

Basic Differences in State's Political Parties Despite Similar Platforms

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — What, asked a young politician who had read both of the platforms composed and published by the tween the two parties in Wisconsin?

It is a good question but it requires some preface. The story of the times in this country, as in this state, has been in the gradual coming together of the political parties in basic beliefs and purposes — as expressed by their nominees for public office.

Both parties have gradually, sometimes without being willing to acknowledge it, moved toward the middle so that many of the old distinctions have gradually been obliterated. It is perfectly evident to anyone who has observed Wisconsin affairs for, say, 20 years, that the contemporary Republican party stands quite some distance from the position of other men who composed the party a generation ago. It also is evident that the Democratic party of more recent times has taken on a more moderate coloring. There isn't a single public ownership pledge in the new party platform, as one noteworthy hint.

YES, BUT

Yet there are real and important differences between the parties, with respect to their basic beliefs, and their alliances and commitments.

There are the associations, for example, of the Democrats with the political objectives of organized labor.

It is virtually inconceivable that the contemporary Democratic party, in power, would do anything seriously opposed by organized labor — although it does not follow that the party would automatically enact all of the demands of the labor lobby.

The care with which Democratic legislators cater to the labor lobby today in the legislature, as members of a minority without responsibility for the finished legislation, has become legendary in the capitol. There is nothing quite like it in the legislative process.

The Republicans also have some such loyalties. Historically the farmer has been the most favored citizen in the legislature. In a somewhat lesser way, the Republican is inclined to listen if the businessman, collectively, is very sure of a political want. Yet the Republicans can show considerably more independence of action with respect to the business community than can the Democrats with respect to the forces of labor. The enactment under Republican sponsorship of an unemployment compensation scale bitterly attacked by organized manufacturers is a fair and clear current illustration.

MORE BROADLY

In more general terms, however, the basic difference between the parties as institutions is in their conception of the role of the government in modern society.

Here the views of individual Republicans and Democrats may tend to blend and blur, but it can be said that the Democrats as a party believe in and propose to achieve bigger government, more powerful government, and more serviceable government. Put another way, the Republicans put more reliance upon the individual responsibility of the citizen — as a party. Some Republicans, of course, consciously or unconsciously stand with their Democratic rivals and owe their label allegiance to such irrelevant factors as birth, family environment, geography and others.

Conversely, the Democrats stand for more public spending and more taxation than do the Republicans — as a whole. They tend to view taxation, moreover, as a social tool as well as a fiscal necessity. It is a redistributive method. The party tends to represent political forces that want public benefits and services, at the cost of others. Republicans more typically have an awareness of taxes as an individual burden and have a closer affinity to citizens as payers rather than as receivers.

Start Physical Fitness Program in Public Schools

From the Traverse City, Mich., Record Eagle.

The opinion that Americans are too soft is freely given. Usually it is followed with the sage generalization that something must be done to increase physical fitness. What we need is an answer to the question: How do we go about getting it?

The answer is not easily come by. More competitive sports for children? Certainly. A junior olympics to interest thousands of youngsters in developing their athletic ability? Fine! but along with those things, why not reform inadequate public school physical training programs with the idea of giving every pupil a better chance to develop a strong, well co-ordinated body?

In most places, the present emphasis is heavily on developing athletes for interschool competition. The bulk

Jobs are Available but Employers are Choosy

From Grand Forks, N. D., Herald.

A college graduating class which had watched private industry assiduously wooing elder friends and fraternity brothers as recently as 12 months ago is now in the midst of a pretty tough job hunt. Private and government surveys vary only as to degree. What they add up to is that last year's June job bonanza has turned into a job scramble.

A tempered optimism comes from the U. S. Department of Labor. In an open letter to 470,000 collegians who will receive degrees this June, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell on May 17 promised a "generally favorable" job outlook despite recession. But he made it clear that recruiters from private industry are not repeating last year's locust-like descent on the campuses. Businesses are being "much more selective" in hiring.

An earlier survey by the Wall Street Journal of 40 companies showed that two-thirds planned to hire fewer college graduates than in 1957. More recently a N. Y. Herald Tribune campus study came up with the startling conclusion that job hunters face their toughest year since 1949.

About 390,000 of the graduating students will be receiving bachelors' degrees. Higher degrees will go to another 80,000.

Their impact on the labor market is going to cause the usual rise in unemployment. But government statisticians privately suggest that this may be partially offset by the siphoning off from the labor force of the youngsters who ordinarily would be looking for summer jobs. It seems a paradox, but high school students and college lower classmen go after summer jobs most energetically when openings are plentiful.

Starting pay is leveling off this year, too. Demand for scientists continues strong, but employers are getting choosy. The emphasis in recruiting advertisements seems to be turning away from the cradle-to-grave security approach which played up the "team" appeal. Fortune says this excerpt from a Sylvania ad shows "a refreshing change of pace": "You Don't Get Lost" You don't have to submerge in a "Team" at Sylvania, your individual abilities and character."

The shortage of teachers continues, especially for the lower grades. About 95,000 are needed. Salesmen and mathematicians are needed. Manufacturing offers fewer opportunities than insurance, banking, and retail trade. All surveys agree on the shortage of good accountants.

City Cleans Up; Pig Pens Banned

Clay City, Ky. — It was clean-up week. And one must admit pigs are not clean. So the city council passed an ordinance banning pig pens in the city.

Thread of Sentiment

Jefferson, Wis. — The old town fire bell — unused since the city went modern with a telephone hookup to summon volunteer firemen — has been left hanging on a thread of sentiment. City council considered tearing down the bell and belfry and donating it to the fire department but tabled the idea when one alderman said he felt the bell had sentiment for old time residents and ought not to be disturbed.

Salary, Status are Factors Which Discourage Teachers

From the Kansas City Star.

Why teachers stop teaching ought to be fairly easy to determine. They stop teaching because they can make more money at other jobs. Many women teachers get married and have children of their own. Others tire of the status rut that places them as dedicated, but odd, full-time public servants who aren't supposed to have much fun or to be interested in money.

Why many potential teachers never go into education in the first place probably can be answered to a degree in terms of pay and status, but the question deals with unknowns and is in no way simple. The University of Kansas City has been given a $40,000 grant by the U. S. office of education to learn what it can about the problem.

Pay is one factor that undoubtedly scares off many of the student body, in most schools, receives only minimal physical training. Why not shift the emphasis — worry less about red hot competitive teams and more about the physical fitness of all the students? That would be a good start at making the coming generation less soft than this one is.

Grand Chute Raps Master Plan Idea

Town Board, Planning Committee Oppose Project by 'Outside Firm'

Grand Chute town board and town planning committee members went on record unanimously Tuesday night in opposition to the regional master plan as proposed by the regional planning commission.

The two units, meeting in joint session, said the town would support the planning commission as presently set up but refused to go along with commission proposals to have the master plan drawn up "by an outside firm." They urged a "go slow" policy on the master plan idea.

Members voiced further dis-of the area," Lecker said, "and hiring them would be a better idea than calling in an outside firm."

"There would be no way to enforce the plan even if it were adopted," Schuh declared.

The planning committee appointed John Steyens as chairman. Steyens was also named Grand Chute's third representative on the planning commission. Present representatives are Schuh and Lecker. The committee instructed Steyens to send a letter to the Wisconsin department of public instruction asking a representative to appear at a meeting July 8 to discuss proposals for consolidating Grand Chute school districts.

Thomson Notes Disadvantages In Tax System

Says Rates Not Only Factor in Favorable Climate for Industry

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Wautoma—Gov. Vernon W. Thomson, regarded in some quarters as an influential obstacle to reorganization of the Wisconsin tax system, may be relenting on the issue, he indicated in a speech to businessmen here last night.

Addressing the Wautoma Junior Chamber of Commerce, the governor conceded that Wisconsin has some competitive disadvantages in respect to taxes.

But he declared that a "favorable industrial climate cannot be defined solely in terms of tax rates."

His administration, he said, has shown its concern for the problem of local taxation of business and industry by meeting greatly increased costs of education and welfare during the last two years without any increases in the income tax rates.

Some important business groups in the state have campaigned for the relief or stabilization of property and income tax rates by a sales tax, after the precedent of many other states. The governor opposed the proposal during his first legislative term and has been non-committal about prospects for the future. Both recently published state party platforms were also equivocal on the policy issue.

The state executive was fearful speaker at the annual Wautoma Jaycee banquet at Silver Crest resort. "Wisconsin enjoys some distinct advantages to industry in other factors that make up the whole of what is known as a favorable industrial climate. The status of industry itself in regard of the community and the considerations of state government are significant factors in the determination of a favorable industrial climate," he said.

"There are few, if any, other states where the needs and rights of industry are more thoroughly understood or cared for by a sales tax, after fully considered than they are in Wisconsin," Thomson stated. "The governor does not promote contempt for our industrial citizens merely to curry favor with other segments of the economy. Nor do we enact legislation detrimental to the interest of one part of our economy simply to gain the votes of another," he declared.

Committee Sees Some 'Frills' In Schools

But Construction Supervisor Defends Building Practices

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — There are probably some "frills" in the costly school buildings now being erected in Wisconsin at a pace exceeding all past records, a sub-committee of the Legislative council concluded here yesterday.

But committee members found that it will be difficult to agree on precisely what a "frill" is. One man's frill is another man's necessity, the committee seemed to say during a long session of informal and sometimes spirited discussion.

The sub-committee is a branch of a general committee studying more efficient utilization of public school plant investment. It is headed by R. G. Ducharme, Menasha mayor, who exploded at a session here a month ago about the inexperience and enthusiasm of some school boards in handling school construction budgets.

Plentiful Reactions
DuCharme confessed that his publicized remarks have produced plentiful reactions around the state, but he said he has not changed his mind. "There are frills, and I'll stand on that. Moreover, our climbing local tax rates must be stopped somewhere," he declared.

Roger Kirchhoff, state architect, offered this definition of a "frill," which appeared to please committee members.

"It is what we like but some times don't actually need."

"But Alfred Buechner, school construction supervisor of the state department of public instruction, insisted that localities under state guidance generally are making efficient use of their school building dollars."

Very Few Frills
"On the whole in Wisconsin during the last five years, there have been very few frills. Some of these things complained about are there for a very real educational purpose," Buechner said.

DuCharme said it is the responsibility of localities to build their schools and in many instances people are getting expensive school buildings because they want them. The committee made arrangements to discuss school construction techniques and costs with a committee representing the professional society of architects at its next session.

Lebanon Asks UN Force To Seal Syrian Border

not be expected to shoulder the burden alone.
Grimly chewing on a cigar stub, the pro-western president indicated there was little chance for compromise with the rebels. Mostly from the Moslem half of the population, the insurgents have been trying to overthrow him for more than six weeks. They want a regime more friendly to Nasser.
Chamoun declared there were between 10,000 and 12,000 rebels arrayed against government security forces. Rebel forces have tripled since the outbreak of the revolt, he said. The government forces—army and police—are largely Christian-officered. The security forces have been estimated at about 9,000.
Chamoun said between 25 and 30 per cent of the rebel force were Egyptians or Syrians who have slipped across the frontier.
Expects Strong Attack
He said once more that he expected a concerted rebel attack soon. He said yesterday he expected an onslaught within 48 hours from rebels concentrating north, east and south of this once gay capital.
The president estimated that between 700 and 800 rebels were holed up behind barricades in the Basta area of the capital. A said many of these were Egyptians and Syrians.

Some of the rebel leaders have denied access to the border by the fewer than 100 U. N. observers sent here to look into Lebanon's charges that the U. A. R. was sending men and arms to the rebels. The U. N. teams can only observe.
The Soviet Union, in an official statement, declared itself against any form of intervention from the west, including the turning of the U. N. observer force into a police force. It charged the United States and Britain were planning intervention in disguise, and warned that the Soviet Union could not remain indifferent.
Observed Shelling
Chamoun said barring U. N. observers from the border by rebel chiefs did not completely nullify the usefulness of the observers.
He cited, as an example, that observers had witnessed the shelling from Syria of a garrison at Marjayoun in South Lebanon. The observers saw where the firing was coming from and were able to examine some 120 mm. mortar shells which failed to explode, he reported.
This was the second shelling of the garrison there, he added. Lebanon was quiet up to mid-afternoon today but it could be only the calm before a blow-off.
Authoritative reports from Tripoli in the north, one of the areas where Chamoun said rebels are concentrated, said rebel forces there led by Rashid Karami had issued an ultimatum to government troops demanding surrender of the American Presbyterian hospital. All Americans there were evacuated some time ago.
Premier Solh in an interview said he had told Hammarskjold "what exists in Lebanon is not a rebellion but a state of war."
Syrians and Egyptians, carrying arms and equipment which could only be provided by governments, were slipping into the country in large numbers, he said.
Can't Stop Infiltration
U. N. observers had obtained "ample evidence" of this, he added, but could not stop it.
Concerning the need for U. N. emergency forces, he declared: "These troops when they come, should throw a complete cordon around Lebanon's borders—by sea and land—in order to ensure no infiltration from the U. A. R. is possible."
The U. N. forces, he outlined, would operate like the U. N. emergency force along the Egyptian - Israeli line in the Gaza strip until infiltration stopped. Then Lebanese forces would take over the job of dis-

U. S. Minister Richard Davis asked for additional police protection, and Russian employees at the embassy were given the day off.
A total of 150 Americans, including the wives and children of diplomats, live in the embassy building, mainly in apartments on the middle floors.
Another 50 embassy families are housed elsewhere in Moscow, as are the 12 American news correspondents in Moscow and their families.
There was no expectation among westerners in the Soviet capital that embassy people themselves would be endangered by any demonstration.
Leo Hoegh Named By President to Head New Office
Des Moines—A hawk with a butch haircut—that's Leo A. Hoegh, chief of the new office of defense and civilian mobilization.
The 50-year-old former Iowa governor was named by President Eisenhower yesterday to the $25,000 a year combined agency job.
Since he was named, civil defense administrator a year ago, this energetic midwesterner has carried to Washington his hawk-like habit of heading straight for target.
Actually, Hoegh's name (pronounced "hoyg") means hawk in Danish. His adversaries will tell you the name fits. Hoegh likes a good scrap, whether it's a winning or losing cause.
This trait has endeared him to his friends. He gives and receives loyalties with singular intensity.
During World war II, General Terry Allen made special mention of Hoegh's "complete loyalty." Hoegh was operations officer of Allen's famed 104th (Timberwolf) infantry division. He received three battlefield decorations. After the war he wrote the divisional history, "Timberwolf Tracks."

Passports No Longer Denied Because of Beliefs of Applicant

Washington — The state department is beginning to issue passports under last week's supreme court ruling that the travel documents can't be denied because of an applicant's beliefs or associations.
The department also notified attorneys for artist Rockwell Kent and Dr. Walter Briehl, a Los Angeles psychiatrist, that they will be issued passports too.
All three men figured in the high court's passport ruling. In the wake of the ruling, legislation was introduced in congress to authorize the state department to deny passports when issuance would not be in the best interests of the country.

Small Colleges Can Take More Students

State Study Shows Private Schools Able to Serve Increasing Demands

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The private colleges of Wisconsin will be able to handle their share of the heavily increased enrollments that are certain during the next 15 years.

That's the conclusion of a staff study made by the coordinating committee for higher education, and endorsed by that state planning agency at its most recent meeting. The report was couched in language suggesting investigators were surprised. There have been some guesses that the responsibility for service of the state colleges and the University of Wisconsin would be enlarged during the next decade and a half because of the likely inability of the private schools to expand their programs to handle additional enrollments. The report did not cover colleges separately.

Serve Together

But it said positively that together the privately endowed schools will be able to serve the same proportion of the state's student load in the future as they are accommodating today.

When those schools complete new buildings for which financing is already assured, they will be able to increase their student totals by 50 per cent, and by 1970 they hope to have the physical facilities to permit an expansion amounting to 83 per cent over their present matriculations.

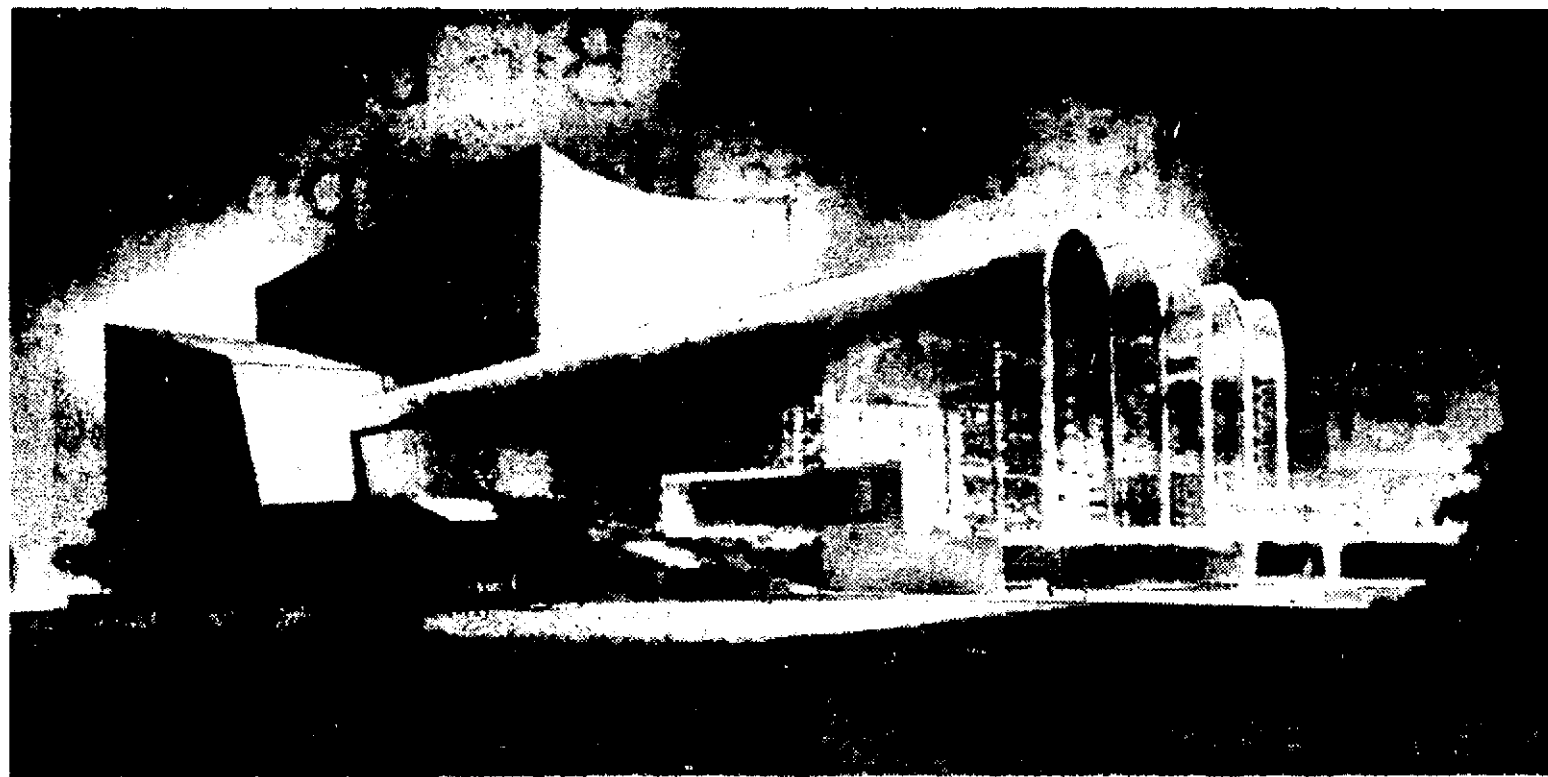

But the schools feel there is a limit to their growth potential.

Collectively, they reported a doubling of their present enrollment would probably be the limit even if all the necessary money becomes available.

Plan For Growth

"This is sufficient expansion to take care of the increased load for the next 10 or 15 years, and perhaps a little longer," the state report commented. "However, unless additional private institutions are established this expansion by the present private institutions would not enable them to maintain the same ratio they now have, beyond the next 15 or 20 years."

The staff study concluded that in view of the growth prospects of private schools, state tax-supported schools must plan for a growth of about 70 per cent during the next decade and a half.

The report labeled that estimate a "conservative" one.

Thirty-seven private institutions were polled in the study and replies came from those representing more than 90 per cent of the private college enrollment.

The schools now have considerable unused student capacity, it was disclosed. Especially the smaller liberal arts colleges could use more students within their present plans. The schools on the whole could increase their student enrollment by 24 per cent, or about 4,500 persons, with present academic equipment, they reported. They will be able to add about 10,500 when presently authorized building plans are completed, and about 20,000 as a maximum.

The women's colleges have the largest unused capacity now and also have financing for future facilities that will considerably enlarge their capacity.

What Young People Think

Should Girl Ask Boy to Go Steady? Why Not, Reply Today's Teenagers

BY EUGENE GILBERT

When it comes to landing a steady, a sizeable proportion of young American females is all for chucking traditional feminine wiles into the ash can.

These modern girls prefer a more direct "me Jane, you Tarzan" type of approach.

For a long, long time, it has been an accepted standard of romance that the boy must take the initiative. When it came question-popping time, he did the popping.

Julie Raskin, 19-year-old college sophomore from Miami, struck another blow for the emancipation of women. "The day when the girl just hung around waiting breathlessly for a guy to say something is over," she said. "If two people like each other, the relationship should be equal."

For Alicia Felsen, 18, of Chicago, such a step involves a great deal of soul searching.

"It's not wrong for a girl to ask a fellow for a date, but going steady is another thing," she said. "It's much more serious."

No Back Seat

"But then, if girls always took the back seat where would civilization be? Why should we always have to wait, wait, wait? We have as much right to ask and get what we want as anyone."

The boys who granted this right to the girls were quite philosophical about their shrinking male role.

Joe Sherman, 18, of Baltimore, said, "Look, the women have always gotten the men to do the proposing. My mother tells me she practically put the words in my father's mouth. I guess some of them want to save time now."

Bob Talmage, a 17-year-old college freshman from San Francisco, told our interviewer: "I suppose the smart thing to do is to make the man think he is doing the suggesting, but if the girl isn't that clever, she'll just come right out and ask, even if it is a little clumsy."

But there were some old-line lads. Ralph DeMarco, 18, of Fresno, Calif., was one of these. "Sure a girl should have equal rights as a boy," he said. "But if it just doesn't seem feminine for a girl to be so forward what's right and wrong, and maybe I'm old-fashioned."

There were girls, too, who said George. "If they have to shared this philosophy, 'I could take a course, it's too late.'"

SHOULD GIRLS "SUGGEST GOING STEADY?"
YES	NO
GIRLS 24%	76%
BOYS 16%	84%
PARENTS 5%	95%

to excuse her less direct methods. Said Lisa: "Sure I asked him. If I had waited for him to get around to it, I'd still be waiting. A man doesn't know his own mind."

Phyllis Hermon, 17, of Indianapolis, felt even more strongly: "No, a girl should not take the first step in suggesting going steady. That doesn't mean she's any less of a person. A girl should let the fellow wear the pants. When she's too aggressive she loses something."

The parents apparently remain conservative—95 per cent of the teenagers interviewed said their parents would vigorously veto a going steady proposal made by a girl.

Just as unanimously, the teenagers agreed that going steady is here to stay. Half said they already do.

Two per cent of them said there is some course or special training in their school on the social etiquette of going steady. Eleven per cent thought such a course is a good idea.

But not George Granit, 17, of Dallas. "Teenagers who have been well brought up know what's right and wrong, and that applies to going steady," he said. "If they have to take a course, it's too late."

LC-K Team to Meet Harrison

Tilt at Kimberly Thursday Night Starts at 8 O'clock

Kimberly — After having its win streak snapped, the Little Chute - Kimberly team of the Fox Valley Baseball league will try to get back on the victory trail meeting Harrison here at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

Harrison has been having trouble getting started in the loop this season and the LC-K club will rule a heavy favorite.

The Menasha Macs throttled the LC-K club Sunday by a 11 to 2 count. It was the first league loss in seven games and broke the victory string at eight.

Co-managers Elmer Kobs and Floyd Hammon of the LC-K team have not announced who will get the starting assignment on the mound. In the loss to Menasha Al Harke, Clete Wynboom, Bob Mehlberg and Hank Peerenboom all saw action. Bob Schmidt will be available but he may be saved for Sunday's game.

Wynboom and Peerenboom are likely mound choices since the former hurled two frames and the latter only one in Sunday's contest.

Council Unit Votes to Keep City Position

Committee Decides Against Separating Four Different Posts

Kaukauna — The health and recreation committee of the common council voted to recommend to the council the city accept letters of application to fill the offices of recreation director, deputy health officer, relief director and director of the ambulance.

These offices were formerly held by Robert Vanevenhoven who left last week to assume the post of recreation director at Menasha. The committee had been considering separating the duties which would have made the recreation directorship a separate office from the other three.

The only dissenting vote to the proposal of continuing to run all offices under one director came from Fred Reichel, fifth ward alderman. The motion to run the office under the old system was made by James Gertz, chairman of the committee, and seconded by George Simon, third ward alderman.

Boating Problems

Due to increased boating as a recreational activity in the Fox river near Riverside park, the committee authorized the chief of police to study the feasibility of stationing a policeman in the park on Sunday afternoons to help regulate boat traffic.

Committee members discussed boating accidents in surrounding communities which have led to injury and death to persons and heard reports on minor boat collisions which have occurred on the river near Riverside park.

Rain Delays Start Of League Action

Little Chute — Rain has delayed the start of action in the pee wee and junior hardball leagues on the village playground, according to Bill Fitzpatrick, recreation director.

The leagues were slated to open Monday and Tuesday but rain has forced postponement.

Friday afternoon there will be a pet show on the Doyle park playground. Prizes will be awarded in various categories. All types of pets are eligible for the contest.

Wet Grounds Force Postponement of Game

Little Chute — The Legion baseball game between Kimberly and Little Chute scheduled for the park here Tuesday afternoon was postponed because of wet grounds.

The game will be played at a later date to be decided by team managers.

All Footings Have Been Dug

The addition will take the form of an all-purpose room, serving as an auditorium, lunch room, physical education room and activity area. Additions are planned to both public grade schools in the city along with complete remodeling of the interiors of both structures. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Auxiliary Council Reelects Kimberly Woman President

Little Chute — Three officers were reelected to their posts at a meeting of the county auxiliary of the American Legion at the village hall.

Appointments announced were Miss Barbara Porter, Kimberly, as secretary and Mrs. Floyd Hardacker, Appleton, as treasurer.

Mrs. Matt Vanden Boogaard, Kimberly, served as parliamentarian. Mrs. Sherman Capp, Appleton, was chairman of the tellers and assisting her were Mrs. James Vanden Heuvel, Little Chute and Mrs. R. J. Daehke.

Membership awards were presented to units that helped to make the council the first in the district to be over the quota. Awards went to Mrs. Melvin Maynard, Appleton; Mrs. Orville Stelov, Black Creek; Mrs. Ernest Beyer, Seymour; Mrs. Joseph Keller, Hortonville; Mrs. Matt Vanden Boogaard, Kimberly; Mrs. Alfred Marzahl, Kaukauna; Mrs. Ronald Geiger, Little Chute, and Mrs. Ray Wilkinson, Shiocton.

The membership report showed that the county total has reached 1,349. Mrs. Daehke gave a report on the bedspread project that all units have participated in so far 28 spreads.

Appeals Board Votes Rezoning Of Motel Site

Kaukauna — The board of appeals voted to recommend to the common council rezoning of a lot at 632 Meade street from residential to light industrial to permit construction of a motel on the site.

The move came when no one objected to the application of William Van Zeeland to construct and maintain a motel at the site. Surrounding property owners had signed statements saying they had no objection to such a motel. At the same time the board authorized L. O. H. Kemp, building inspector to issue Van Zeeland a building permit after approval for construction is received from the state industrial commission.

The board also granted permission to a citizen to erect a home closer to the lot line than required by the city when the proposed builder showed statements of no objection from abutting property owners. A similar permit was granted for the construction of a garage closer to lot lines with neighbor's approval.

Competition was held recently to select a majorette and twirlers for the Community Marching band. Karen Dirks was selected as majorette while other twirlers will be Nancy Bixel, Mary Behnke and Sandra Schmalz.

Fall Program, Parking Discussed by C. of C.

Drive Underway to Raise Attendance For July Meeting

Monthly meetings were approved and each member in attendance promised once again to bring one more member to the next session. The plan was first proposed in May when only 13 members were represented at the gathering. It is hoped attendance at the July meeting through the special attendance drive will bring out about 70 members.

Dominic Bordini, director of the Kaukauna school of Vocational and Adult education, told members the school was planning to present a course on salesmanship this fall. The course is designed especially for businessmen and their employees, according to the director and he urged members to begin thinking about the course.

Home Mutual Buys Future Office Site In Town of Menasha

Firm Acquires 21-Acre Parcel On 47 West of Shopping Center

Home Mutual Insurance company has acquired a 21-acre site in the town of Menasha for eventual use as a home office site.

Gordon A. Bubolz, company president, said today Insurance Associates, Inc., has purchased the remainder interest in the farm of the late Arthur Searl, former nightclub operator, on Highway 47 west of the Valley Fair Shopping Center. The purchase, subject to a life interest by Searl's widow, was from the couple's children, Davis C. Searl, Appleton, and Mrs. Armine A. Seis, Merrill.

No purchase price was disclosed. Stamps on the transfer papers recorded at the Winnebago county register of deeds, office indicate the purchase price was about $100,000.

Bubolz said the property, with a substantial frontage on Highway 47, will be used as a site for a home office building, according to present plans. Home Mutuals now leases the top four floors of the Insurance building at 228 W. College avenue.

The town of Menasha property is bounded on the east by lots fronting on the west side of Chain drive, Highway 47.

Service to 4-H By A. F. Stapel Recognized

Arthur F. Stapel, manager of the Fox Cooperative Wholesale which he organized nearly 20 years ago, was cited for outstanding service to the state 4-H clubs Tuesday night in a general convocation of the club's week at Madison.

His citation noted the time and money he spent in supporting 4-H bands, fairs, junior livestock sales, safety education and 4-H scholarships.

Many of the general, area-wide 4-H meetings are held at the Co-op buildings in the town of Menasha.

Tonight Lorraine Jochmann and Robert Wittmann, both of rural Appleton, will be among the 24 club members who will receive honor member citations.

The recipients have completed an average of nine years in club work and are being cited for general excellence in the program.

City Committee Seeks Meeting About Depot

Ask Council Okay To Invite Road's Chairman for Talks

A meeting with Chicago and North Western Railway company officials over the railroad's Appleton Junction passenger depot will be sought by the city council's public safety committee.

Committeemen decided Tuesday night to ask the council to invite Ben W. Heinemann, North Western chairman, or his representative, to confer with them.

The council will vote on the proposal next Wednesday night. Complaints by the chamber of commerce caused the committee decision.

"These complaints," the chamber said, "all involve a matter of convenience to the public and we find they are true and sincere expressions."

It would be better if the railroad moved back to its downtown depot, the chamber said. The North Western moved its passenger depot to Appleton Junction March 24.

At the time of the move, two reasons were cited by the railroad: More efficient and economical operation and a desire to lessen traffic congestion on N. Oneida street and N. Appleton street, the city's north-south, 1-way pair.

Heinemann, however, charged in March, 1937, that Mayor Robert L. Roemer and the late Chief of Police Herbert W. Kapp were trying to force the railroad out of the downtown depot by causing trainmen to be arrested for blocking the two streets.

Some committeemen Tuesday night disclaimed council approval of such a move. Others thought the action had been right.

Needs Repair
Committeemen did agree that the junction depot is badly in need of repairs. They indicated part of any conference with railroad officials would be devoted to determining what the railroad plans in improvements.

Railroad officials assured the city in March that extensive repairs would be undertaken. Committeemen seemed particularly put out that there is no sidewalk at the depot, little room for parking and the sign still reads "Appleton Junction."

Whether the committee will urge a switch of stations back to the downtown depot or talk also of a combined air-rail terminal on the northeast of the city was not discussed.

Witnesses Plan for Annual Convention
A delegation of Jehovah's Witnesses from Appleton, Neenah and Black Creek will attend the denomination's international convention July 27 through Aug. 3 in New York City. Glenwin Hughes, presiding minister of the Appleton congregation, said the convention is expected to be the largest in the history of the group.

Meetings will be held simultaneously at the Polo grounds and Yankee stadium.

Fined for Passing
James E. Jashinsky, 42, Pound, was fined $15 and charged four points for passing illegally on Highway 41 near Little Chute Feb. 28 after a trial Tuesday before Acting Municipal Judge Stanley A. Staidl.

Seeks Election As Prosecutor

Schwarz is married, has three children and has lived in Appleton since 1955. He attended Notre Dame and received his law degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1954.

Schwarz was born in Madison. Schwarz has no previous political experience. He is employed as an attorney by Farmer's Mutual Insurance company and is affiliated with Fox Valley Land Title company.

3 Fox Cities Men Training For Commissions

Three Fox Cities area men are members of the first Wisconsin Military academy class now undergoing training at Camp McCoy.

The officer cadets are Sgt. Robert L. Crouch, Appleton, Master Sgt. Chris Nielsen, Neenah, and Pfc. Harry Olp, Greenleaf. They are among 53 cadets selected from units of the 32nd Infantry division, Wisconsin National Guard.

With another summer encampment and seven weekends of duty in Madison, the cadets will be eligible for commissions as second lieutenants.

Their day at Camp McCoy includes eight hours in the classroom and two hours of supervised study each night. Instruction covers a wide range of military subjects — from airborne operations to tank warfare — in order to meet academic requirements of the army infantry school.

Study material is the same regular army officer candidates receive, except that it is taught and learned at a faster rate.

Commencement Will End Bible Sessions

The commencement program for vacation Bible school at First Baptist church will be held at 7:30 Thursday evening. The program will include a demonstration of the work and activities of the children.

Youngsters will report to the church at 10 o'clock Friday morning when colored Bible films will be shown and attendance awards presented. A picnic is planned for 11 o'clock that morning at Telulah park.

Teachers Choose City For Annual Parley

The Northeastern Wisconsin Education association will hold its annual convention in Appleton April 9, 1959. It is expected 6,000 teachers from this district will attend. The meeting is held here every five years.

Lawrence Says: Sherman Adams Case May Bring Reform Bills

GOP Should Seize Issue and Reap Benefit From It

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — It's an ill wind that blows no good—and it looks now as if the Adams affair will be of more benefit to the country in a reform sense than has been supposed. Also, if the Republicans are astute politicians, they will seize the issue and benefit by it.

Lawrence

The issue, in a nutshell, is not just the gift of a $200 coat or a $2,000 hotel bill but the gift of $725,000 to elect a United States senator and the known and formally reported expenditure of $2,200,000 by labor unions to elect a Democratic congress. Important legislation to check abuses of power by labor unions is pending in congress to-day and may be blocked in the house.

It is being assumed that the coat and hotel bill "bought" influence. If this kind of assumption were accepted—and this seems to be "public opinion" as interpreted by the critics of Sherman Adams—then logically it would become pertinent to ask if the present congress has been "bought."

In a recent speech, printed in the "Congressional Record," Rep. Ralph W. Gwinn of New York, Republican, said:

"In the 1956 elections organized labor was active in 300 of the 435 congressional district elections—and were successful—that means that their man got elected—in more than 175.

"Let's look at just one campaign, in 1954, by one union, for one senator. Special election radio and TV broadcasts cost for time only, with no allowance for staff, script preparation, reprints of talks, was $250,000. Special election editions of regular publications, extra copies to distribute outside the regular union membership ran to another $175,000. And then, on top of all this, this union hired 500 'special organizers'—payroll title for political workers—at $20 per day for the 30 days just before the election. This cost another $300,000, exclusive of expenses or other services. This gives us a total of $725,000 spent by the United Automobile Workers, CIO, in support of Sen. McNamara in Michigan in 1954.

"If the unions spent only half as much in the 30 senatorial contests in 1956 as they spent in Michigan in 1954, it would amount to $150,000,000."

Gwinn, who made a special study of the subject, estimates that at least $62,000,000 is spent "for political purposes annually, or a total of $124,000,000 for each biannual election of members of the house and senate."

"Is it any wonder," exclaims Gwinn, "that few pieces of legislation pass contrary to the recommendations of the leaders of organized labor?"

It is, of course, only an assumption that members of congress are influenced in their voting on labor subjects by gifts their campaign funds received from labor unions. But the critics in congress are assuming the same thing with respect to the telephone calls of Sherman Adams to federal agencies, notwithstanding the testimony of the members of excessive sums in behalf of a candidate, either with or without proper influence was exerted. out his knowledge and consent.

It is only fair, therefore, to being contrary to sound public assume also, in the absence of policy, harmful to the honor and proof, that Sen. McNamara dignity of the senate, and would not allow any campaign gifts or contributions to influ- sive government, such ex- cence him in his votes. sive expenditures are hereby severely condemned and disap- proved."

Another Michigan senator, Truman H. Newberry, resign- in November, 1922 after a furor over the fact that, in the Oregon, Democrat, who receiv- primary and election contests $23,250 in contributions from in 1918, about $195,000 had been the labor unions in his last cam- spent — largely for advertising paign, evidently doesn't believe and publicity — in his behal- now that it's a good thing to in the ordinary course of the accept such gifts, and he is one campaigns. The senate in 1922 of the few courageous members adopted a resolution stating of congress to say so today, "that the expenditure of such

Builders Postpone Plans for 1958 • Parade of Homes

The Valley Home Builders as- sociation has suspended plans for sponsoring a Parade of Homes this year. The builders will, however, present the show in the spring of 1959, the asso- ciation announced today.

Suspension of plans for this year's show came about when builders ran afoul of a city or- dinance restricting construction until after street improvements are complete. The north side location selected by the asso- ciation could not be prepared in time for a show this year, builders said.

Other sites and programs were ruled out for various reasons and the association finally settled on a postponement until next spring. Plans for the '59 show currently are under- way.

Hungarian Executions Poison Troubled Air

Shows Great Powers Losing Control Over Problems They Can't Settle

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

The Hungarian executions, — is not a new development because they are both cruel and treacherous. They have poisoned the international air in which the great powers were supposed to be working towards an accommodation. We do not know why the government in Moscow decided the executions were necessary. But it is certain so great an outrage to world opinion would not have been committed were there not compelling pressure within the communist orbit.

The executions have taken place at a moment when the diplomatic talks in Moscow have shown that on the substantial issues there are no negotiable propositions which could be dealt with at a summit meeting. There is a bare possibility, not more than that, that it would seem, of an agreement to suspend nuclear testing. But if testing is suspended, it is likely to be done because, like the Russians, we, too, have our own reasons for thinking more will be gained before world opinion than will be lost in the development of weapons. There is no other subject in the whole series of conflicts where there is even an approach to a meeting of minds. The underlying fact — that

United Wallpaper Sees '58 Net at, Above '57 Level

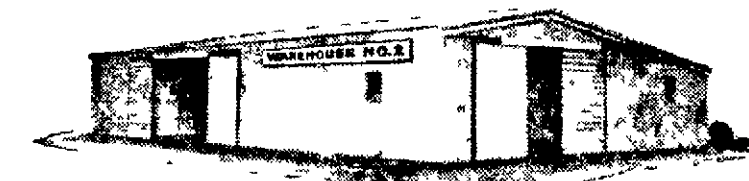

Chicago — Earnings of United Wallpaper, Inc., for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958, are expected to be "equal or slightly better than" last year, S. U. Greenberg, president, said. Though sales and profits in the fourth quarter of 1957 and the first quarter of 1958 were below the levels of the like year-earlier periods, "business has picked up in recent months," Greenberg asserted. He said paint and wallpaper demand "will continue reasonably good for the next few months." In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1957, United Wallpaper had net income of $3,340,448 or 97 cents a share, and net sales of $38,889,473.

Arts of Cherry Blossom Land Displayed

The Traditional Japanese tea ceremony and art of Oriental flower arrangement were the cultural gifts brought to Appleton by a visitor from the Land of the Cherry Blossom, Miss Sei Mandai, native of Kobe, Japan. The young woman, right, moves through the intricate tea ceremonial watched closely by her hostess, Mrs. Richard Calder, 1233 E. Byrd street, who uses chopsticks to eat a tea cake.

For a lovely bowl.

The young dark-haired woman kneeling on the floor resembled a brightly hued flower, petals blossoming in rich red, blue and yellow designs. Her slim hands fluttered like ivory butterflies as they moved slowly about a tea set.

With gracious dignity, Miss Sei Mandai, 25, native of Kobe, Japan, offered a tiny porcelain cup to her hostess, Mrs. Richard Calder, 1233 E. Byrd street. Silently, the Appletonian accepted the translucent dish in her left hand, turned it twice; and sipped three times, the last being an audible slurp.

A lulling giggle broke the quiet. "Means very good," chuckled Sei as she grinned at her hostess who by her loud noise had indicated her enjoyment of ceremonial Japanese tea.

Honor Friend

Mrs. Calder leaned back on her heels, her pink kimono spreading like a cherry blossom over the living room floor. Smiling, she explained the ancient ritual, interrupted occasionally by her pretty guest.

"The Japanese bestow the tea ceremony as an honor upon a good friend. The hostess never drinks tea," she was checked by Sei's quick headshake. "That's right," Mrs. Calder corrected. "Sometimes if the guest is a very good friend, she might drink, too."

The simple base ceremony stressing intricate hand movement takes about 15 minutes and is repeated for each guest present. Guests sit in silence on the hostess's right so she may hide soiled tea utensils behind the flowing left sleeve of her kimono.

Emperor's Design

"All over," Sei softly broke in. "say pretty dishes." "Like our guests," Mrs. Calder commented. "It is polite to ask about the design. Sei is using a bowl influenced by a cloud poem of Emperor Hirohito."

Mrs. Calder nodded toward the small tea set and related. Sei had spent Saturdays as a school girl polishing the ritual to perfection. Young fingers had accomplished more, she continued, for Saturdays also included flower arrangement, and after weekday classes, Sei squeezed in practice on the piano and Japanese harp, studied ceremonial dancing and experimented with American-style cooking.

Spiritual Culture

For Sei and her five sisters, knowledge of the ancient practices was more than the training in ladylike arts. Instilled was a centuries-old culture, heritage of both peasant and emperor, which emphasizes man's spiritual and artistic refreshment over bodily needs.

Sei's visit with her Appleton friend however, meant more than the renewing of old bonds. At Mrs. Calder's invitation, she had earlier demonstrated the traditional tea ceremony and flower arrangement for the Simple fabric bands slipped over the arms pulled the wide sleeves back for ease in household tasks.

speech and education at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, where Sei is training for an education degree. Since the fall of 1956, the poet coed has resided with Mrs. Calder's parents, the Donald Hickmans of Milwaukee.

Classic Triangle

Sei rose exposing white cotton socks, divided to give the big toe free movement. Near by were her dress shoes, called zores, thong sandals removed indoors.

She lifted a bouquet of snapdragons and gladioli from a low bookcase and turned, dark eyes twinkling. "Triangle," she stated. "Heaven, man, earth line. Never centered . . . look at vase too." . . . she paused, flustered at her conversational plunge.

"The height of the arrangement is important," her hostess came to her aid. "Flowers are placed 1 1/2 times the width of the base or the height of the vase."

Sei nodded agreement. Sei's bouquet, continued Mrs. Calder, displayed the classic scaled triangle of the Orient, showing the stature of man to heaven and earth.

Baby's Sling

A wall halted conversation and Mrs. Calder left the room to return with her young baby son, Stevie. Urged by the young mother and with much giggling, Sei fashioned a makeshift sling for the infant in the traditional harness-style of her native country.

As her nimble fingers tucked the cloth around the giggling baby, Sei hesitatingly told how the kimono was worn. The outer silk garment is fashioned after weekday classes, Sei much like a loose robe without buttons with extended width in the sleeves. Over this, an obi or ceremonial sash of contrasting color, generally about 10-feet long, is wound at the waist.

Practical Kimono

To prevent buckling, a curved piece of cardboard is slipped under the obi at the waist front, while in back, the silk is straightened by a metal clasp hidden under the large tie.

Underneath the kimono is worn the jikan similar in cut but sized to the individual's height. Of plain white silk, its only trim is an embroidered collar which is revealed by the v-neck of the outer garment.

"It's practical," Mrs. Calder pointed out. "A kimono fits anyone by simply folding over extra length under the obi. Simple fabric bands slipped over the arms pulled the wide sleeves back for ease in household tasks."

Japanese custom dictates correct wear of the costume.

The Scaled Triangle Displaying man's position to heaven and earth is the Japanese contribution to bouquet arrangement. Miss Mandai, a coed at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, demonstrated her traditional handwork for a meeting of the Memorial Presbyterian church guild.

Tiny Stevie Calder was minus a wiggle after he was placed in a harness worn by his mother in the manner of a Japanese woman. Miss Mandai secured the makeshift sling explaining a special cloth is used to carry infants in her native land. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Vibrant colors and large patterned silks are donned by young women, while the worn small figured gowns in dark hues. The married woman wears a higher obi with short-sleeved kimono. The vivacious young woman is learning while a bride's sleeves dip to the floor. For daily wear, the obi is fastened into a neat rectangular drum tie with the for-

type of clothes the attendants

It has long been customary for the bride and the bridegroom to give to their attendants a small gift — often a remembrance of the wedding day. Both practical and sentimental are gifts of jewelry from the bride to her attendants which they will wear during the bridal ceremony.

These items, earrings, bracelets, necklaces, need not be extremely expensive but in good taste for they will be treasured long after the wedding. A daintily engraved disk on a thin bracelet with the initials of the wedding and the date of the wedding often is the bride's gift to her maid of honor and bridesmaids.

These personal presents are usually given when the bride and her attendants meet, minus the male attendants, for one last "feminine fling." This need not always be the rule. A tiny flask of high-valued perfume too, is a well-known gift as are many others, selected by the thoughtful bride in view of the tastes and likes of her attendants.

Engraved cigarette lighter always useful and well as stylish, the clasps, cuff links, and stud boxes are among the most favored gifts for the bridegroom to present to his attendants. An unforgettable novelty, also not without practicality is the sterling silver shot glass, complete with the prospective owner's initials.

Behavior of In-Laws Nettles Wife

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Isn't it bad manners, even for members of one's family, not living under the same roof, to enter a house without first ringing the bell or knocking on the door? My husband's family live close by and they think nothing of walking in without the slightest warning. Not too infrequently I have been startled to turn and find some member of his family standing in front of me. My husband and I have had quite a heated argument over this and he thinks it is perfectly all right for them to walk in unannounced. I would very much like to have your opinion on this matter.

Answer: Personally I agree with you that they should at least, on opening the door, call out to you. On the other hand, if they have the habit of running in and out of each other's houses without knocking, and your husband sees nothing wrong in this, I am afraid you will make yourself very unpopular if you try to stop their doing it.

Food Served On Picks

Dear Mrs. Post: How should hors d'oeuvres be eaten when served on picks? Should the food be eaten off the pick or removed and eaten in the fingers?

Answer: The pick is provided so that the food may be eaten from it without soiling one's fingers.

Major question holding up an inventory, it was indicated, is a ruling by the treasury department on the treatment of specific assets in the estate. These assets are funds given McCarthy to be used in his fight against communism but were never set up in a trust fund, only a separate bank account, the court indicated.

There is no indication when the federal authorities will rule on the case.

A Wise Choice of Color Makes a Rug Extra Practical

Its color can make a rug another when it's time for new paint and furniture—the rug won't hold back a change of scene.

Mrs. M.A.G. "Will you please help me to decide on a wall color to harmonize with the enclosed swatches? The walls are now a dark green, the sofa and one chair are covered in the green and gold print and another chair is in the gold. The floor can I use a darker color carpet is green not as dark as to spare me too frequent cleanings?"

First of all, the rug color must and write. What do you think of harmonize with the rest of the room colors. Mrs. B. If it does walls? What color should new n't it won't be practical because draperies be?"

you won't like it and will want. The very attractive print hard to change it too soon. But if you choose a rug in a mixture of striped gold because they both the room colors, with some have green-gold in common, darker shades of them added, it has more to offer than show-gold family would be a better choice than cocoa or sandal-wood, both of which tend to ward a pink tinge. You might look for drapery fabric first and try sample with what you have, then match the wall paint to the shade you decide on.

day." "Monday is today."

"Yes, but your five cents for this Monday is gone. You spent it and ate it. Finish!"

This is the first lesson about the use of money that we learn. You get it, you spend it; Finish! The next lesson soon follows. You get the money, you spend some of it and you save what is left. You save it to spend it later for what you want most.

Next you learn about wanting. There is that money in the bank. If it is taken out and spent for that want; Finish! That feeling, that knowledge of finished, begins to be painful. That saved Penny becomes "precious and precious" and it stays longer and longer in the bank. The want that draws it out has to be highly important, extremely necessary, to dare the lonely feeling its spending brings. We have learned about value received.

We, the people of the United States of America have reached a peak of prosperity that is making us careless about the value of money and so have neglected to teach the children about its place in their lives, and how important that place can be. It is time to brush off the dust of neglect from that old maxim and teach Cherry how to use five cents, a penny, a dollar, and about the hard fact that something gained is the something saved.

Vandivier took off his coat, pitched in and spent a half hour lugging 100-pound sacks of feed. (He sold the ad.)

Leaves that will be below the water level should be taken off. Place the stems in the water from the tap, not cold water. After the flowers are arranged in the container add commercial cut flower food. If you do broken tiles, hollowed rocks or balance

Industrial League Stars Matched in 4th Annual Clash

Managers, Umpires, Officials Meet in Four-Inning Opener

Menasha — The Twin City Industrial league's fourth annual all-star game will be played at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at Jefferson park.

The main contest will be preceded by a 7 o'clock test of four innings matching a team composed of league officers and umpires against a squad made up of managers of the 15 league teams.

Packers Place Five

This season the league returns to a star contest pitting the best players from both divisions against each other. For the first and only time, last year the leaders in each division met the all stars from their respective circuits.

The Marathon Packers placed five men on the American division star squad. Gilbert Paper has four, Main Office and Soo Line three, Wisconsin Tissue Mills and Neenah Paper two and Northwestern Electrotype one.

The unbeaten Marathon Ramblers have six on the National section roster. Foundry has four, Wooden Ware and Banta's three, Badger-Globe and Bergstrom's two and Strange's and Lakeview none.

Pitchers for the American division are George Bonnack, Gilbert's, Dave Demichei, Packers, and Hilly Koslow, ski, Neenah Paper and for the National section, Doug Wirowski, Rambler; Doug Cane, Wooden Ware, and Bob Ross, Banta's.

American Division

List Managers

Al Smarzynski of the Ramblers will manage the National section stars and Morrie Quick of Gilbert's will lead the Americans.

Repeaters are Koslowski, Kosiorek, Conger, Mueller, Gregorius, VandenHeuvel, Peterson, Williams, Ihde, Rohe and Ebben. Several of the Rambler stars played with that team in last year's game.

In 1957 play, the National stars stopped the Ramblers 6-0 and Strange's edged the American division's best 8-7. The National league won the previous two tests.

In the event of rain, the game will be played next Tuesday night. If rained out then, it will be played the following Thursday.

This Week's Neenah Interplayground junior olympic competition consisted of five pin bowling contests. Shown competing in the city contest for youngsters 8 years of age and under at the second ward playground, left to right, are Jim Larson, Second ward; John Speakes, Washington, and Kevin Milliken, Hoover. Tournaments are held in four age divisions each week and the results tabulated. Cook park was the leader going into Tuesday's competition. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Menasha — Menasha's Junior Legion backed up a fine three-hit pitching performance by Don Jensen with some sparkling defensive plays to defeat Mayville 5-1 at the Menasha ball park Tuesday night. The game was a seven-inning affair by agreement.

The Lenz-Gazecki post now has a 3-2 league record and is 4-2 for the year. Mayville has a 1-4 loop slate.

Jensen gave up single hits in the first, second and third frames and hurled hitless ball the final four. He walked three, two in the seventh inning, and struck out five.

Make Five Hits

Menasha tapped Bob Schellpfeffer, 14-year old Mayville hurler, for five hits. Schellpfeffer walked one, hit two batters and struck out two.

Among the defensive gems included a catch by Don Remmel in right field while going away from the infield, a good grab by second baseman Bill Gammev of a lner while racing toward the right field line and the throwout of a runner at first by Jensen after he slipped while fielding a ground ball.

Mayville got its lone run in the top of the first when with two out Bill Steinhach walked, stole second and came home on Tom Wilmot's single to center.

Menasha Tallies

Menasha went in front with two runs in the bottom of the first Jim Rueckl was safe on an error, took second on a balk and scored on Dave Robinson's single. Robinson advanced to second on a balk and came home on a one baser by Remmel.

The winners added two more runs in the third. With two out, Robinson got the rally going by reaching first when hit by a pitched ball. He stole second and came home on Remmel's single. Remmel went all the way to third on a bad throw by the left fielder. Tom Syring singled through the box to score the latter.

Gary Shriver reached first base on an error but the side was retired on an oddity. Shriver stole second but thought the umpire had called a foul ball on the hitter. He headed back to first and was an easy out.

The Lenz-Gazecki post got a marker the easy way in the sixth. With two out, George Goetz was hit by a pitched ball, stole second, continued on to third when the catcher threw the ball into center field and scored on a bad peg to the infield by the center fielder.

Mayville threatened in the seventh when with one out pinchhitters Gordy Pilsner and Pat Hayes walked. Jensen forced Schellpfeffer to hit into a fielder's choice and struck out pinchbatter Bill Heimerl to end the game.

3-I Franchise Shift May Bring About Attendance Boost

Splitting of Season Adds New Interest to Flag Race

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Rochester's fold-up, though regrettable as another of the many failures in the minors of recent years, may have a stimulating effect on attendance for the other Three-I league clubs.

For one thing, Kansas City can be expected to go further in fielding a more interesting and more potent club at Winona now that its plight at Rochester has been underscored for all the baseball world to see.

Secondly, and even more important, the switch has given League President Hal Totten an emergency reason to declare a "new" race — the second half of the season. Obviously, Winona couldn't be expected to take on the new franchise with a hopelessly trailing ball club.

With Davenport setting a sizzling pace and, for practical purposes, out of reach of everyone but runnerup Burlington (and enjoying an 8-game lead even over the Bees) the pennant race had little excitement left to offer.

500 in 2nd Month

Of course, one of the obvious advantages of a minor league split season this or any other year is to give the clubs who have strengthened themselves through the early weeks of reshuffling something to shoot at.

At least two of the league entries — Burlington and the Fox Cities — are playing much better ball than they did during the first month.

Burlington, which was tied for fourth with Rochester (12-17) after the first month, has won 18 of 26 since then. The Foxes, who were last with 10-16, have played .500 ball (14-14) in the second month.

Green Bay played .500 ball for the first month and almost the same (12-13) for the second. Davenport's pace is similar (20-8 and 18-9).

Cedar Rapids and Rochester have skidded since the first month. The Raiders followed a 16-12 record with one of 10-16. Rochester has a 6-18 mark since the beginning of the sec-

Davenport '9' Is 3-I's New Gate Leader

Foxes Slip To Third Place With 974 Average

Davenport, for the first time this season, has taken the attendance lead in the Three-I league.

A mammoth Youth night crowd of 5,443—biggest in the league this season—pumped the Dav-Sox' 24-date average to 1,107 fans.

Cedar Rapids retained its 1,000 average but slipped to second place.

The Fox Cities dropped to third in the gate derby—their lowest position in the first eight weeks of the season—with a 974 average.

All figures (as shown in the accompanying table) include games through June 21.

All five teams, with the exception of the now-defunct Rochester club, have over a 900 average—the figure quoted by Rochester officials as the break-even point. Rochester's draw through last Saturday was at a 527 pace.

Spahn Halts Slump, Defeats Giants, 2-1

Mathews, Adcock Hit Homers

Milwaukee —(P)— A month ago Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves pitched a no-hitter against the San Francisco Giants for 6 1/3 innings, only to lose a 5-3 decision on seven hits, three of them homers.

Tuesday night the skillful left-hander pitched a no-hitter against Billy Rigney's club for four innings, gave up only three hits including a home run, and won, 2-1.

The difference was rapier-sharp control and a fast ball that belied his 37 years.

Biggest Bulge
The result put the National league — leading Braves 3 1/2 lengths in front of St. Louis, which moved ahead of the Giants into second place. San Francisco is .002 percentage points behind the Cards in third. It is the biggest bulge the Braves have enjoyed this season.

Adcock Spahn

In posting his ninth victory, and first since May 31, Spahn drew all the support he needed from Eddie Mathews' fifteenth homer and Joe Adcock's ninth. Spahn has four defeats.

Mathews hit his in the first and Adcock connected in the second. Both were off starter Stu Miller, the junk man who usually battles the Braves down to the wire. He lasted only five innings this time, long enough to be saddled with his fourth defeat against on victory.

Filipe Alou hit a leadoff homer in the sixth for the Giants' only run.

It was his third of the season and the 19th of Spahn, who now leads the NL in gopher pitches. Spahn has served up 12 of those fat serves in the last four games.

Spahn walked only one and struck out seven in recording

House Passes Measure Granting Immunity To Pro Team Sports

Voice Vote Sends Bill to Senate; Law Would Continue Draft, Reserve Clause

Washington —(P)— Top professional sports officials today hailed the House vote to grant to baseball and other team sports sweeping immunity from the nation's antitrust laws.

The bill would enable professional teams to continue long-established practices such as player drafts and baseball's reserve clause. It also would give clubs more authority over television and radio broadcasts of games.

The same standards would cover all the big four team sports—baseball, football, basketball and hockey.

Senate Must Act
The House passed the bill by voice vote yesterday. The Senate still must act.

"The bill, if passed, is one that all sports can live with but it is in no sense a license," said Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

"The House has expressed its confidence in American sports. It is now up to us to demonstrate that the confidence is not misplaced."

Similar praise was voiced by National Football Commissioner Bert Bell, minor league Commissioner George Trautman and Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey league.

In passing the measure, the House turned down a bill sponsored by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY) and approved by the Judiciary committee. That bill would have exempted professional sports from the anti-trust laws only to the extent that their practices were found "reasonably necessary" for the sport to function. Critics said the legislation would create a chaotic condition and deluge teams with law suits.

Business Activities
The house-passed bill says, in effect, that only strictly business activities—things like stadium and concession operations—are subject to anti-trust prohibitions against monopoly and business restraints.

The substitute proposal, offered by Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) says the anti-trust laws cannot apply to contracts, agreements or other practices in the big four sports as they relate to:

1. Equalization of competitive playing strength.
2. The employment, selection or eligibility of players, or the reservation, selection or assignment of player contracts.
3. The right of teams and clubs to operate within specified geographic areas.
4. Regulation of rights to broadcast and telecast reports and pictures of games.
5. The preservation of public confidence in the honesty in sports contests through commissioners' offices.

The bill preserves the right of players to bargain collectively and have their own player organizations.

Rochester Wins Home Finale

Foxes, Cedar Rapids Rained Out Again; Davenport Triumphs

(From AP Dispatches)

Davenport celebrated its first-half Three-I league pennant with a 7-6 victory over Burlington Tuesday night, while Rochester smacked Green Bay, 14-4, in its final appearance in that Minnesota city.

The Fox Cities and Cedar Rapids were victimized by their second successive postponement. Rain forced a halt after two innings, with the score knotted, 1-1.

The Foxes are scheduled to play a doubleheader in Green Bay tonight, beginning at 6:30.

It was a festive night for the Dav-Sox and the game was preceded by an hour-long variety

Hero-a-Series Cardinals Top Pirates, Gain 2nd

By The Associated Press

Those St. Louis Cardinals, finding a new hero for each series, have slam-banged into second place in the National league race on a month-long ride from the depths.

It was Joe Cunningham's late-inning belts that gave the Cards a split in four games at Cincinnati last week. Then it was Ken Boyer's bat that beat the first-place Braves in two of three at Milwaukee over the weekend. And now it's Curt Flood doing the job against Pittsburgh.

The 20-year-old center fielder, with four hits in Monday's success, killed the Pirates again last night, breaking up Ronnie Kline's shutout bid with a 2-run homer in the ninth for a 2-1 victory that extended St. Louis' winning string to four.

The Cards are .002 percentage points ahead of the San Francisco Giants, who skidded to third with a 2-1 defeat at Milwaukee.

In the other NL games, rookie John Briggs won his first in the majors with an 8-hit shutout as the Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia, 3-0. The last-place Los Angeles Dodgers swept a tough two-night pair at Cincinnati, winning, 13-10, in 10 innings and 7-2 in 11.

Blow Leads
Flood slugged his fourth homer after a walk to junk Kline's 5-hit shutout. Phil Paine won his fourth in relief.

Briggs, 24, struck out six and walked four — blanking the Phils on two hits over the last five innings. Al Dark's single, a sacrifice and an error gave the Cubs the big run in the sixth off Jack Sanford, now 5-6. Rookie Sammy Taylor hit his fourth homer, with one on, in the seventh.

The Dodgers blew leads in both games. They nailed the opener with three in the tenth on homers by Gil Hodges and Joe Pignatano off old pal Don

Wiley Argues With Interior Department

Says Old Method of Distributing Wildlife Funds Is Best

Washington (R-Wis) Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) said Tuesday changes proposed by the Interior department would provide an unfair distribution of federal funds for wildlife restoration.

Wiley proposed legislation to amend the Pittman - Robertson act which would require apportionment of federal funds to states for game projects on the basis of licenses issued rather than on the number of license holders.

Under the act, the states contribute funds to be used along with federal funds to carry on acquisition, maintenance and restoration of wildlife projects.

Collect Excise

The federal funds are obtained by collection of an excise on firearms and ammunition. After deducting certain costs, the money is reapportioned to the states.

"For over 20 years, funds under the act have been allocated to the states according to a formula generally based on records of numbers of licenses issued," Wiley said.

"Now, by a new interpretation of the original statute, the Department of the Interior proposes to change the formula to allocate funds on the basis of license holders rather than on licenses issued."

Separate Licenses

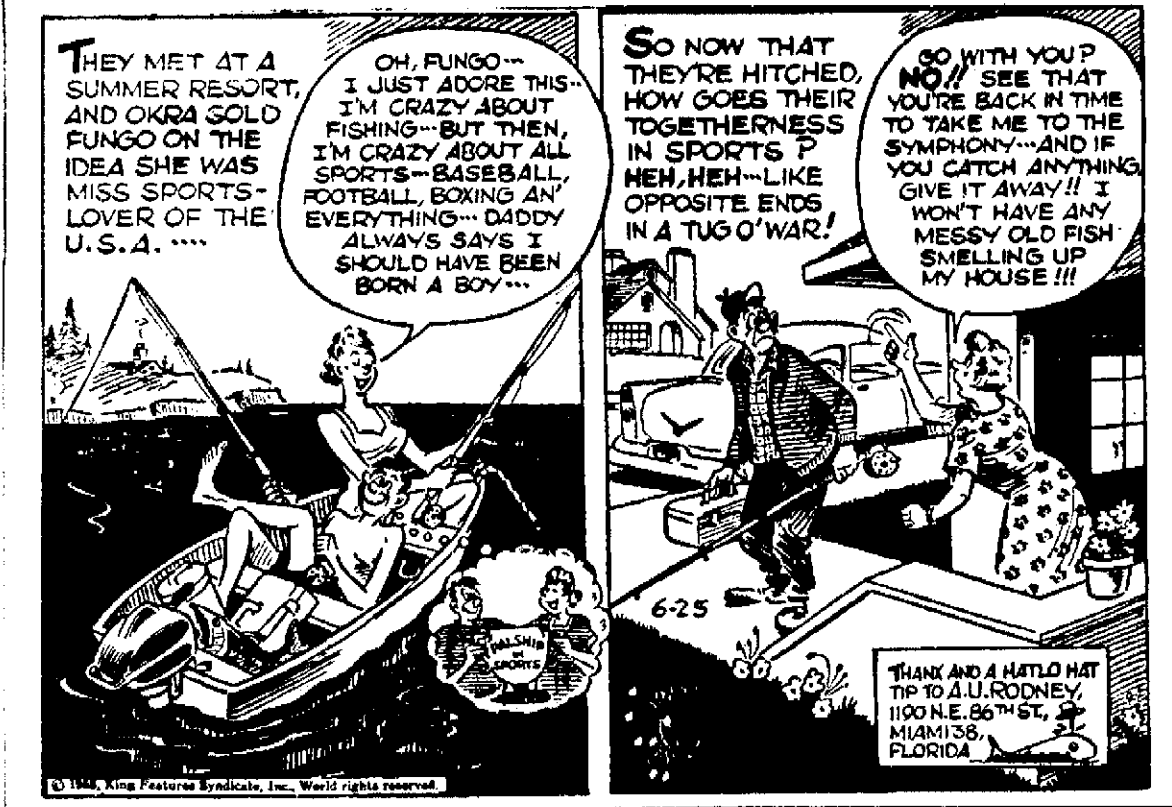

"For example, a hunter may be issued separate licenses for different kinds of game hunting. Under the proposed changes, however, the state—for purposes of qualifying for funds—would be allocated money only on the basis of a single license."

Wiley said the proposed changes by the department also would require special costly surveys to determine the number of hunters and such. This money, he said, could be better spent for wildlife management and restoration purposes.

Wiley said he is urging Secretary Seaton to hold up the proposed changes until Congress has an opportunity to go into the matter.

'Hub' King Not Loser in Legion Game at Kimberly

Fond du Lac's Tom Brownlee was the losing pitcher in Saturday afternoon's 3-2 Fox River Valley Junior Legion league game at Kimberly rather than "Hub" King, as reported Monday. The Post - Crescent was misinformed by the scorers. King, one of the top young pitchers in the state who is undefeated this year, relieved Brownlee in the fourth inning with the score 1-0 Kimberly. Brownlee had put two runners on base in the fourth and both scored. The runs were charged to him.

In Timing of Traffic Lights

Plan Affects Key Downtown Streets, Including I-Streets

A change in the timing between stop-go lights on key downtown streets was authorized Tuesday by the public safety committee.

The plan, which may be placed in effect Tuesday, provides traffic movement at 16.7 miles an hour on College avenue, 20.4 miles an hour on Washington street, 16 miles an hour on Appleton street and about 30 miles an hour on the west end of W. Lawrence and 20.4 miles an hour on the east end of W. Lawrence.

Electrical Inspector Fred Volkman said the plan was devised by Eagle Signal corporation after Assistant Inspector Joseph Schoenhaar put the problem to the firm while attending a company school at Moline, Ill.

Safety committeemen decided to continue to hold requests for stop-go lights at E. College avenue and Drew street, W. Franklin street and N. Superior street and W. College avenue and Mason street.

Not Needed Now Traffic Sgt. John Gosch said the corners do carry large amounts of traffic at certain times during the day but not enough to warrant stop-go lights at this time. He asked for consideration for the E. Wisconsin avenue and N. Meade street corner. A committeeman added that there also may be need for a stop-go light at W. Lawrence street and S. State street.

The committee agreed to seek information from the state highway department about how the new Highway 41 will affect the city's mercury vapor lights at the W. College avenue and W. Spencer street intersections with Highway 41.

Volkman said it is probable that the present lights will be inadequate after the second traffic lane is added. The intersections will be too wide to be lighted by the present lights, he explained.

Committeemen voted to approve a truck study by the state highway commission on July 14 and Oct. 20 on E. Wisconsin avenue between N. Durkee street and N. Drew street. The state will be asked to pay the city for a policeman who will help in handling traffic. Trucks will not be cited for violations when stopped as part of the study, L. W. Empey, district highway engineer, said.

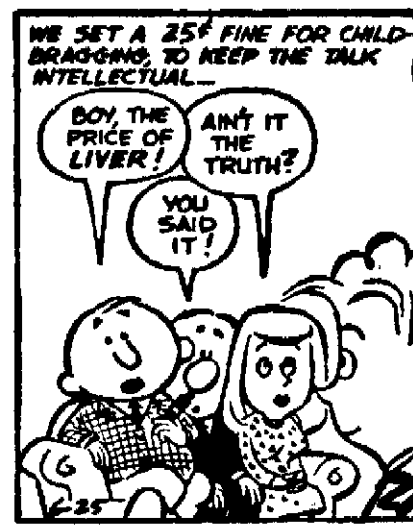

Deny Sign Request Ald. Harold Hannemann's request for "Caution, Children, Drive Slow" signs on River drive was denied. Sixty-eight petitioners also sought the signs. Committeemen said the denial was a matter of policy.

Purchase of a Rambler from Sam Malofsky Motor company for the low bid of $1,854 was approved. The car, to be used by the police juvenile officer, is a 6-cylinder model with 127 horsepower. Bids were opened earlier by the board of public works.

A meeting with the police and fire commission over its request for funds to rewrite police and fire department regulations was scheduled for 7 o'clock Monday night at city hall.

A check of the ordinances was ordered for Ald. Austin N. Tucker and Ald. Al. H. Stoenbauer's request for 90-minute parking on both sides of N. Division street from W. Franklin street to W. Packard street. It was said there may be a parking ban on the west side of the street on the books already.

The street painting crew was instructed to reserve the northeast corner of S. Oneida street and E. Harrison street from parking. It was said no ordinance amendment will be needed to enforce the parking ban.

N. Morrison Stop-Go Light Schedule Set

The public safety committee decided Tuesday on a solution to the N. Morrison street and E. Wisconsin avenue stop-go light problem.

The committee will recommend to the council next Wednesday night that the light operate between 6 and 9 o'clock in the morning, 11 o'clock in the morning and 1 o'clock in the afternoon and between 2:45 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Committeemen were told St. Therese Catholic school children are dismissed at 3 o'clock Monday through Thursday afternoons and at 2:45 on Friday afternoons. The rest of the schedule also fits all school times.

At all other times, the lights on E. Wisconsin will flash caution and those on N. Morrison will flash stop.

Illegal Otherwise The schedule was recommended by the state highway department after studies. Operation of the lights are illegal unless the city signs an agreement with the state and the state has indicated this is what it wants, Chairman Thomas K. Schneider said.

Lights currently are operated around the clock, a bottleneck to planned progression of all lights on Wisconsin avenue, Electrical Inspector Fred Volkman has said.

Nearby merchants had opposed a change in the lights at previous committee meetings.

Allis-Chalmers To Build Pumps For Atom Ship

America's first atomic-powered merchant ship, N. S. Savannah, will be equipped with four primary coolant pumps built by the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, Milwaukee.

The pumps are scheduled for shipment early in 1959. They will be capable of pumping 5,000 gallons per minute.

Two pumps will be mounted on each steam generator. Main coolant water will be pumped through the reactor where it will pick up the nuclear fission heat. It will flow through two heat exchangers where steam will be generated in a secondary circuit. The four pumps will return the flow of water to the reactor.

Scheduled for service in 1960, the Savannah will have a full load displacement of 21,000 tons. Its potential cruising radius will be 310,000 miles, compared to the 13,000-mile range of a conventionally powered ship of similar size.

'Emergency' Calls Often Aren't; Company Finds

Charleson, W.Va.—A manager J. R. Michels of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company complains too many persons falsely label their calls emergencies just to get the line quickly.

A check of 3,020 "emergency" calls showed that only 373 involved real emergencies, Michels said. Among the worst offenders, Michels added, are teenagers who place emergency calls to say, "Come on over, we're playing records."

Yankee From Menasha to Play Gen. Robert E. Lee in Drama

It may surprise southerners to learn that the man chosen as the perfect Robert E. Lee is a Yankee.

He's Robert Sonkowsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sonkowsky, route 2, Menasha. Sonkowsky was selected after a wide search to play the part of Gen. Lee in "The Confederacy", an outdoor drama by Paul Green, scheduled to open July 1 at Virginia Beach, Va.

The search for a man resembling Lee began in April and drew 500 applications. It didn't end until after rehearsals had started.

Sonkowsky, who will assume Robert Stanton as a stage name for the drama, can claim some familiarity with the south despite his Yankee origin. He is taking graduate work at the University of North Carolina. Outdoor drama is nothing new for Sonkowsky either. For two seasons he was narrator for Green's "Wilderness Road," produced at Berea, Ky.

Sonkowsky is currently completing work for his doctorate degree in classics. He and his wife, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Zierke, 810 E. Winnebago street, are graduates of Lawrence college in the class of 1953. Sonkowsky will teach in the classics department of the University of Texas, Austin, Texas, beginning in September.

He appeared in many Lawrence college and Altic theater productions.

Semi Jackknives, Cuts Off Power to 200 Homes in City

A semi-trailer jackknifed at the Soo Line railroad tracks on Highway 10 at the west city limits about 8:30 Monday night, hit guy wires of a utility pole and cut off electricity to about 200 homes.

Richard P. Hefferman, 40, Altoona, told county police the railroad warning signals flashed and he tried to stop quickly. His rig hit guy wires, causing two primary wires to touch and short circuit.

Although automatic switching equipment ordinarily would restore service immediately, tangling of the primary wires caused service to be manually restored. Service was returned about 30 minutes after the accident, Wisconsin-Michigan Power company officials said.

A tire blew out on a car hauling a trailer loaded with laboratory equipment Tuesday evening on Highway 54 about 2 1/2 miles east of Seymour, causing the trailer to skid and pull the car off the road. Driver of the car, Uno Avista, 25, East Orange, N. Y., said the laboratory equipment was used to test soft drinks.

Former Appleton Man Retires as Peshtigo Paper Mill Official

A. M. Dohr, a former Appleton resident, has retired as mill superintendent at the Badger Paper Mill company, Peshtigo, W. F. Adrian, president of the firm, said today.

Dohr will continue with the company on special assignment. He started in the paper industry at Riverside Paper company, Appleton, in 1918. He moved to Peshtigo in 1920 as finishing room superintendent of the Peshtigo Pulp and Paper company. He continued with the firm after it was taken over by the Badger company in 1929.

Girl Slightly Hurt As 2 Cars Collide

A 16-year-old girl was slightly hurt Tuesday night in a 2-car crash at W. College avenue and Walnut street.

A car driven by Robert H. Quevillon, 16, route 1, Hortonville, was stopped for a traffic light when it was hit by a car driven by James K. Schroeder, 19, 600 Ridge lane, police said. Taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Larry's ambulance with cuts and bruises on the head was Patricia Kripplan 1312 W. Packard street, a passenger in Schroeder's car.

Schroeder told police he got something in his eye and could not see the Quevillon car. Both cars were eastbound on W. College.

Chief Ordered To Survey Fire Station Sites

Must be Between Meade, Richmond, North of Wisconsin

Fire Chief Paul Neumann Tuesday was ordered to draft a list of all available sites for a north side, neighborhood fire station.

The sites must be north of Wisconsin avenue and between N. Meade street and N. Richmond street, the public safety committee ruled.

The ruling apparently rejects:

1. Ald. Donald Mueller's resolution calling for a neighborhood station on the far east end of E. Wisconsin.

2. Carroll and Carroll's offer of an 80 by 120-foot lot on the northwest corner of E. Wisconsin and N. Charlotte street for $9,500.

Chief Against It

Neumann told the committee he wouldn't endorse the E. Wisconsin-N. Charlotte site because it is too far east and fronts on busy Wisconsin avenue.

Mueller's contention that the city may acquire the town of Grand Chute fire station on Highway 41 within two to five years through annexation was doubted.

One committeeman said annexation also might mean the town would have to keep the station for town purposes for an extended period. Neumann pointed out the town station might also be needed for other purposes, including a neighborhood police station.

The north side would be better served from a central location, the chief contends.

$2,000 Available The 1958 city budget provides $2,000 for down payment on a north side fire station site.

Mueller, Neumann and Ald. Clarence Lautenschlaeger focused the first attention since the fall budget hearings on the intent to buy a north side site.

They appeared before the park board May 21, asking approval for the city to use the northwest corner of Erb park for the neighborhood station.

Mueller told the council in the same resolution calling for a station on the east end that "the request for use of the northwest corner of Erb park... has not been received too well."

County Policeman Files Papers for Sheriff's Job

County Police Sgt. George Elze today filed his papers for the Republican nomination for sheriff in the Sept. 9 primary election.

Elze is one of three candidates trying for the GOP nomination. There has been no Democratic candidate entered in the race so far.

Deadline for filing nomination papers with County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeiffer is July 8.

Remodeling Work

Edward A. Kranzusch has received a permit from Building Inspector Walter Bogan to remodel the residence at 1108 N. Morrison street for about $250.

Stillman Miner has received a permit to remodel the garage at 707 E. Randall street for about $25.

Street Partly Closed

S. Walden avenue will be partially closed for several days between E. Fremont and E. Calumet street while Brennan-Rolland, Inc., Cato, the city contractor, installs a storm sewer, Public Works Engineer Henry Crowe said today.

FCC Asks Cut On Phone Rates

15 Per Cent Drop Ordered for Lease-Type Lines

Washington — The federal communications commission today ordered American Telephone and Telegraph company to cut its rates for private telephone line service by about 15 per cent.

The order becomes effective in 60 days.

The commission announcement said that on the basis of AT and T's 1955 traffic volume study — the ordered adjustment would reduce the company's revenues by $5,700,000 a year.

FCC said an analysis of AT and T's own figures showed it is earning "at least" 10.5 per cent on its investment in private lines.

Bring Down Returns The reduction is designed to bring the return rate down to 7.5 per cent.

Privately leased telephone circuits are widely used by government agencies, stockbrokers, banks, large industries, and others.

Today's order does not affect the telephone service used by the general public, or telegraph services maintained by AT and T, or wire circuits supplied to TV and radio stations for program transmission.

Fox River Valley Farmers
Are The Backbone of This Major Branch of Agriculture

An aggressive dairy farming population is an asset of great worth to the prosperity and well-being of the Fox River Valley. These Dairy Farmers spend many dollars which contribute to the welfare of all business people in the area. They are community builders.

Dairy products today comprise 25% of the average American diet. This requires the distribution of 60 million quarts of milk and cream daily. One of the big reasons for such large milk consumption is that milk and milk products are so economical.

"JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH" . . . it started in 1937, and has been observed every year from coast to coast, honoring the nation's dairymen, and the outstanding products they produce.

Fiberboard Filters Poison Gases From Nuclear Fallout

Madison—George H. Roderick, assistant secretary of the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory at Madison had developed a cheap fiberboard which filters out poison gases, disease-laden particles and radioactive fall-out from nuclear fission. Roderick spoke at the twelfth annual meeting of the Forest Products Research society that has drawn about 600 delegates.

The fiberboard, he said, was developed under a contract with the army chemical corps and is called fiber diffusion board. "It would possibly be used," he said, "for shelters for the protection of troops or civilians from most of the deadly effects of radio active fallout from nuclear weapons. 'This fiberboard has the appearance of home construction but is impreg- cause it might permit a popula- tion to continue its habitation of screen out the deadly gases and an area poisoned by surprise other harmful particles. Life attack. Though not the ultimate sustaining oxygen on the other in protection, it has placed us hand passes through it freely one step closer to preserving 'Truly this is a remarkable our way of life.'

Attic Theater Names Plays For Season

2 Comedies, Drama, Thriller on New Season Schedule

Four productions, including two comedies, a Victorian thriller and a serious drama by a Pulitzer prize-winning playwright, will be offered by the Attic theater during its 1958 summer season.

The plays, announced today by Mrs. Ted Cloak, director, are "The Solid Gold Cadillac," a satirical comedy by George S. Kaufman and Howard Teichmann; "Angel Street," a Victorian thriller by Patrick Hamilton; "The White Sheep of the Family," a comedy by L. DuGarde Peach and Ian Hay, and "Summer and Smoke," a drama by Tennessee Williams.

The plays, which will be presented at the Jefferson school gymnasium theater in the round, were selected from a slate of seven published earlier as possible productions for the season. Comments from prospective members of the audience were taken into account in selecting the scripts.

Locales of the plays range from New York and Washington for "Cadillac" to England for "Angel Street" and "White Sheep," and a small town in the south for "Summer and Smoke."

Performance nights will be changed from Thursday, Friday and Saturday to Saturday, Sunday and Monday of each week. Each play will be presented six times during two successive weeks.

Opening the season will be "The Solid Gold Cadillac," which will be offered July 12, 13 and 14 and July 19, 20 and 21.

Next will be "Angel Street," scheduled for July 26, 27 and 28 and August 2, 3 and 4. "The White Sheep of the Family" will be presented Aug. 9, 19 and 11 and 16, 17 and 18.

"Summer and Smoke," the season's closing production, will be presented Aug. 23, 24 and 25, and Aug. 30 and 31 and Sept. 1.

Curtain time for all productions is 8:15. Season tickets are available at Belling Pharmacy, Appleton.

Campers Enjoy Stay at New YMCA Wilderness Camp in Florence County

BY DAVID APKER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The new YMCA wilderness camp on Sea Lion lake in Florence county will be worth every dollar paid for it by the Y's Men's club, the first group of campers agreed as they headed back to Appleton after a weekend of work and fun.

A group of nine boys and five adults explored the 253-acre site, clearing brush, blazing road lines into the area and sampling the joys of rugged outdoor camping. Youngsters on the trip were Fred Schwalenberg, Walter Skinner, Larry Mitchler, Andrew Nelson, Richard Schumann, Jack Lee, John Moen, Chris Hartwig, Robert Ottman and Gary Steen. Adults were Carl Bruno, YMCA youth director, Philip Ottman, camp committee chairman, Hans Hartwig, discoverer of the new camp, Thomas Orbison, a member of the YMCA camp committee and Owen Wildenberg.

From the moment of their arrival the campers found that wilderness camping abounds with adventure. The camp, located on the west shore of the lake, is inaccessible by car at present, and gear had to be unloaded from autos and brought across the lake by canoe. During the remainder of their stay campers found that canoe travel was the speediest means of transportation.

Road Preparation
In preparation for cutting roads into the camp, the youths spent several hours clearing a quarter-mile swath through brush so a town of Florence bulldozer can cut a road as far as the Pine river on the west section of the property. The woods echoed with sounds of falling shrubbery, trees and youthful shouts.

Their enthusiasm was such that adult leaders had to warn that it was too early to begin logging operations and to confine cutting to the road area.

Orbison, working a surveyor's transit, laid a line of stakes as far as the river flats on the YMCA property line. The town will put in the road as far as the property line at no cost. Its bulldozers will be hired to cut two one-half and quarter-mile stretches of road in the camp area. Hartwig, Orbison, Bruno and Nelson cruised the timber area Sunday to blaze in-camp road routes. The new roads will be connected with an old logging road that runs the length of the property. The campers soon found that the newly-purchased land offers everything an outdoorsman desires. Natives informed them the lake abounds with fish of all kinds.

The fish, however, avoided attempts with rod and reel to lure them into Cook Bruno's frying pan.

Swimming and canoeing furnished most of the recreation for the young campers and they worked up rousing appetites for Bruno's menu. Sandwiches, fried chicken, pancakes and sausages disappeared quickly as the boys ate with teenage abandon.

Exploration of the site showed that the new camp offers a

Cow Regains Freedom On Stairway of Hay

Calhoun, Ky. — Hugh Nance's cow didn't jump over the moon. But she did fall into the cellar.

The cow, Bossy, wandered into the wash house. The floor gave way.

Nance tossed bales of hay into the cellar and arranged them in stairlike fashion up to the hole. Bossy climbed the hay-stairs to freedom.

variety of opportunities for development. High ridges form vast natural amphitheatres. Tops of the ridges will lend themselves to construction of camp buildings in the future. Three, possibly four, islands in the lake may belong to the YMCA. Hartwig reported after talks with the town assessor. The islands are wooded and have a number of good camp spots.

Half the fun of camping is the fellowship that comes around a roaring fire at the end of a long day, the youngsters found out. Dancing flames cast shadows on the campers' faces and illuminated the surrounding area. The warmth of the fire was exceeded by the glow of friendship as the campers exchanged stories and sang songs.

Out on the lake a fisherman and his oarsman silently drifted in a canoe as they listened to a chorus of frogs and loon calls and watched a crescent moon travel through the sky high above the pines.

The first day of camping was ended but the vision of thousands of wonderful camp days lay waiting in the future.

Lebanese Crisis Could Mean Defeat of West

If Nasser Wins Over Chamoun, Other Friendly Arab Lands May Fall

BY JOSEPH ALSOP
Beirut, Lebanon — There is a troubling central mystery in this desperately dangerous Lebanese situation, which rather urgently demands an explanation. There is this unhappy country, torn by a civil war that was started by the flagrant intervention of

Alsop
Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser. Here is the American government, only a little more than 18 months after Suez, solidly committed to land troops in Lebanon if the government of President Camille Chamoun asks for the protection of an Anglo-American landing. No one at home seems to realize it as yet, but this certified check that the American and British governments have given to President Chamoun is not unlikely to be cashed in the end.

The American marines and British paratroopers are now waiting in readiness in the Mediterranean. There is at least a strong possibility they will have to land in Lebanon, unless President Eisenhower chooses to break his recently reiterated promise to President Chamoun. Remember the moral pratings of the White House at the time of Suez. Remember further the chief beneficiary of those pratings was the same Gamal Abdel Nasser who is the chief author of the trouble here. That would seem to be mystery enough.

The impulse to make this inestimably grave commitment did not come from Beirut. No doubt the Lebanese government was pleased by the evidence of stout Anglo-American support but it is an open secret neither the British nor the American embassy here advised the commitment be made. Both embassies have sought to delay a call for a landing. Other things being equal, both embassies would prefer the Lebanese to settle their quarrel by a compromise.

Every government in this area friendly to the west has been bombarding both Washington and London with the most urgent pleas and warnings ever since the Lebanese trouble began. The substance of all these warnings and pleas has been the same, no matter what their place of origin. If Nasser and his allies succeed in subverting Lebanon's pro-western government, the warnings have run, then no friend of the west will be safe any longer, anywhere in the whole Middle East.

Such have been the warnings. The pleas have called for Anglo-American action, including even the open use of military force, to prevent a Nasser victory here. Use force if you must, the pleas have run, but stop this threatened chain reaction in the Middle East by any and all means.

This is the kind of situation that American policy-makers ought to have foreseen long before Suez. They should surely have foreseen it, before they took their grandiose moral stand during the Suez crisis. Even more surely, they should have foreseen this situation in the rough course of the past 18 months.

But they did not foresee what was coming. They took no adequate preventive action. Now they are squarely confronted with the consequences of their own improvidence.

Already, the consequences are bad enough. Only a few months ago, Nasser drew a bead on another western friend, King Saud of Saudi Arabia. In the upshot, King Saud was virtually forced to abdicate. A month ago, Nasser drew a bead on President Chamoun. In the upshot, President Chamoun has already been forced to promise not to be a candidate to succeed himself, as he might otherwise have done.

Politics in the Arab lands are highly personal. By showing his power to pick off individual friends of the west in this manner, Nasser has already achieved much. Let him go on to win a total victory in Lebanon. Then all the voices from afar, warning of a catastrophic and final western defeat in the Middle East, will surely be proven truly prophetic. Various Lines See Leadership To Prosperity

Farm Equipment, Construction Firms Call Outlook Bright

BY SAM DAWSON
New York — Next to guessing when the nation's new business boom will be born the most popular pastime today is naming the industry that will be the proud papa.

Spokesmen for various lines have predicted their industry is destined to lead the nation out of the recession. Here are a few:

A farm equipment maker says sales are so much better this year that a revival in production of this machinery can set the pace, not only by paring unemployment rolls in that industry but by giving the metals companies welcome orders.

Tied in with this is the belief throughout the farm belt that the rise in farm income has both thwarted the recession in those states and set the stage for the next big push upward for the entire economy. A spokesman for the construction industry says the mantle of new leadership clearly is falling upon its shoulders. And another, speaking for the housing segment of the industry, says that the first stirrings of better days ahead in that field show clearly that more home building is already charting the course for a general advance.

Public Road Projects
Another construction division, highway building, holds that the big spending of public money just ahead will start things rolling for everybody.

In Detroit where optimism about the sales allure of forthcoming models is always a standard commodity, the cause for and the timing of the next big advance is considered to be the unveiling of 1959 models and the expected crush of buyers.

Air conditioner makers say all that this country really needs is a series of heat waves. And they and all their brethren building household appliances see the signs of a home building revival as pointing the way to good times.

A stock exchange leader says that what's needed is a reform of the tax structure so that people would have more money to buy securities, thus generating enough public confidence to pull the economy up by its bootstraps.

Some old solesides continue to think that consumers in general will date the upturn. Let them start in large numbers to spend more and save less, and factories will run full speed again. The fact that consumer spending was cut back only slightly has kept the slump from snowballing is true. And a new buying pace would gladden many hearts.

More For U.S. Workers
The trouble with consumers, however, is that you just can't tell what they're going to do or when they are going to do it. They make up their individual minds about what they can and will buy.

One spur to the economy that some see coming soon is the increased pay—amounting to one billion dollars a year—that will soon be in the jeans of federal workers as a result of a coming pay boost for some and an accomplished one for others. Some of the new spending money will be in a lump sum under retroactive provisions, and that could hit the market place quickly.

Urges UN Ban on Tests in Pacific

United Nations — Dr. Norman Thomas asked the United Nations trusteeship council Tuesday to forbid the United States from holding nuclear weapons tests in U. S. Pacific trust territories.

No power on earth, certainly no single nation, should have the right on its own authority to use territory over which it has only the power of a trustee, for the purpose of advancing the development of weapons capable of universal annihilation, the American social leader declared in a personal appearance before the 14-nation council.

Thomas was granted special permission to appear before the council, where the Soviet Union had previously voiced a demand that the tests be halted. He expressed regret that in making the request "we are criticizing the action of our own government."

that lime should be applied at least one year before a lime-loving crop is to be planted. If this recommendation is followed, the 60-mesh particles should be adequate for the crop that first year, as well as the years following.

A simplified lime law would be welcomed by lime producers, Nimlos and Corey feel, and it would be easier to regulate than the present law.

Field trials are now in progress to test the results of these greenhouse experiments and to get specific information on which to base possible changes.

Farm Lime Law Needs Change; Experts Say

Research Reveals
Grade A Mesh Rule
Not Necessary

The Wisconsin agricultural lime law could be simplified, according to University of Wisconsin soils researchers.

Greenhouse tests by T. J. Nimlos and R. B. Corey show that rather coarse limestone particles — ones which pass through a 60-mesh sieve — are about equal in practical effectiveness to the finer particles passing through a 100-mesh sieve.

Under the present law Grade A agricultural lime can contain either 50 per cent of particles which can pass through a 60-mesh sieve or 30 per cent which can pass through a 100-mesh sieve. Ninety per cent of the limestone must pass through an 8-mesh sieve.

Only Two Sizes

Nimlos and Corey believe the particle size requirement could probably be simplified and improved by basing the requirements on only two sieve sizes — the 8-mesh and another somewhat coarser than 100-mesh, possibly 60-mesh.

The researchers say that 60-mesh particles were only half to two-thirds as effective as the 100-mesh particles in reducing soil acidity during the first few weeks after application. But within a year, they were almost as good as the fine ones.

Radioactivity Used to Assist Dietary Research

Radioactivity isn't always just the dangerous result of a nuclear explosion. It has many uses that are profitable, not destructive.

For instance, radioactivity has been used in experiments to estimate needs for certain nutrients and elements in the human diet.

In one recent research study, radioactive calcium was used to compare the calcium that has come from recently eaten foods and the calcium that has been part of the body.

Harriet Barto, University of Illinois nutritionist, says that the daily requirement of calcium could be determined from these data. The experiment indicated that this method could be used to determine calcium needs, since the results agreed with those obtained in much more complicated studies.

The experiment was conducted at Montefiore hospital in New York.

Slight Oversight

Monroe, Wis. — (AP) — Voting was so light in the spring election that one rural resident dropped into the polls and stayed almost all afternoon chatting with members of the election board. When he finally left it was discovered he had forgotten to cast his vote.

Above, some 250,000 bushels of wheat block the downtown street of Snyder, Okla., where it was dumped to wait shipment. Some fields yielded 80 bushels per acre. Oldsters Fail To Get Enough Milk Products

Milk and milk products, along with yellow and leafy green vegetables, are the foods that are most often missing in the diets of people over 65 years.

This conclusion is based on results of a research study of 100 elderly persons in Boston.

Fewer than half of these older people were getting one pint of milk or its equivalent in dairy products per day. Harriet Barto, University of Illinois nutritionist, says that, as would be expected from the low milk consumption, calcium was one of the nutrients that was found to be low in the diets.

Only about half of the people tested were getting 100 per cent of the National Research Council recommendation for this nutrient, which is about four-fifths gram per day. One pint of milk contains about .58 gram of calcium.

About a third of the people had nutritionally poor diets. Bread and cereals were the one food group of which practically all had a satisfactory amount.

The research was done by Julia S. Lyons and Martha F. Trulson of the Harvard School of Public Health.

Radioactive Phosphorus Used in County Test Farm Experiments

BY JOHN WELLS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Waupaca — Geiger counters and radioactivity are not reserved for atom bombs and uranium hunters alone, but are now in use at the Waupaca county test plot farm near Weyauwega, according to Mike Drozd, county agent.

In an effort to determine at which depth fertilizer does corn the most good, university scientists have been injecting radioactive phosphorus at various depths around corn stalks. When the corn is harvested, the stalks are checked for radioactivity and phosphorus content.

The more radioactive the stalk and the more phosphorus content, the more good the fertilizer did at the specified depth.

Radioactive Phosphorus
In the experiments radioactive phosphorus was injected into the soil at four, 14 and 21 inch depths in a 20 inch radius around each of the corn hills. This was done on drainage, tillage and fertility plots for comparison.

The highest recovery of phosphorus occurred in the tile drainage treatment, with little difference between the 14 and 21 inch depth injections. Draw-down of water over the tile lines encouraged a deeper rooting of plants and resulted in the land formed plots. However, the highest uptake of total phosphorus and highest corn yield resulted there.

Test Conclusion
Scientists concluded that the rooting of the plant was not limited to the area directly below the plant, but that the working of the soil in preparation for land forming created a subsoil condition which permitted an unrestricted development of the root system.

There was a higher uptake of radioactive phosphorus at the 4-inch level midway between the 14 and 21-inch levels than over the tile.

Total uptake of phosphorus and yield in the untreated check area were the lowest recorded.

A similar test was carried on at Valders where the effects of subsoiling on root distribution were determined. Data compiled indicates that there was deeper rooting in the 7-inch

The County Agent Answers

When are the entries due for the county dress revue?

The county dress revue will be held July 10 at Hortonville Union High school. Entry blanks for the dress revue must be sent to the agricultural extension office by July 1.

Can spring bulbs be taken from the ground right after they finish blooming?

Yes, but it is not desirable. It is best to leave them in position at least until leaves begin to turn brown. They should be treated with a 5 per cent DDT dust for insects and then stored under proper conditions of temperature and moisture. Tulip bulbs do not need to be removed each year, only when they become over-crowded.

Is it advisable to paint the roof of a temporary livestock shade?

A definite advantage is gained by painting the outside surface of the roof with white paint. A further advantage can also be obtained by painting the underside with a black paint if the shelter is open in the front. For enclosed shades, the under-surface should be painted with aluminum paint. The best roofing material for shading purposes is aluminum. Next is asbestos cement shingles and then wood shingles.

How should weed sprayers be cleaned after using 2,4-D or an insecticide?

First flush the tank with water. Then spray through the nozzles a solution of water and household ammonia. One ounce of household ammonia per gallon of water. Flush with water and drain dry.

How can fungus diseases be controlled in lawns?

Fungus difficulties in lawns are usually not too serious. Stay away from night watering if leaf spot or stem rust shows up in the summer. Spray with a good fungicide such as Captan or Zineb for fairy rings and fungus and dollar spot. Good fertilization and proper height of cutting also will help considerably to control lawn diseases.

plowing than in the 18-inch subsoiling treatment.

The experiments are being carried out again this year. Corn has already been planted and the injections will be made during the next two or three weeks.

New Building To be Opened At 4-H Camp

E. B. Fred to Speak At Dedication on Sunday Afternoon

Wisconsin Dells — A new administrative building and a cabin will be dedicated at Upham Woods, state 4-H Club camp, just north of here, Sunday afternoon.

E. B. Fred, retiring University of Wisconsin president, will accept the buildings for the university in one of his last official acts before retiring July 1.

Walter H. Renk, president of the Wisconsin 4-H club foundation, will present the two buildings.

Fifth of Kind
The cabin is the fifth of its kind to be built at the camp. Upham Woods was a gift in 1941 to the university from Elizabeth and Caroline Upham in memory of their parents. The first cabin was built in 1951. A dining hall was built in 1952.

Every summer thousands of 4-H club members from around the state participate in summer camp activities. Some rural youth from Waukesha county will be encamped at Upham Woods when the Sunday dedication is held.

Others to appear on the dedication program are H. J. Ahlgren, associate director of agricultural extension in Wisconsin; Fred Trenk, university extension forester; and Marvin C. Hanson, superintendent of the camp.

Well-Meaning Motorist Takes Man 200 Miles Past His Destination

Corpus Christi, Texas — "I don't know how that feller who picked me up got so all-fired confused," Henry Neyson, 76, told police here.

"I wondered why it took us so long to get home. My house on Corpus Christi street is just a few blocks from the pension office on Lyons street."

And that's where he was headed—Corpus Christi street in Houston—when a well-meaning motorist picked him up in downtown Houston yesterday and gave him a lift here, some 200 miles away.

Police contacted some of the elderly man's friends in Houston who agreed to drive here and pick him up.

Crowned Queen of the Valders Egg Festival was Marilyn Weishoff, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Weishoff, Seymour. She will represent the egg festival at fairs, parades and meetings of organizations. She won her honors in a field of 18 candidates. The final test was the cooking of an omelet in competition with four other finalists. She claims her omelets are something to crow about. She became interested in the contest through her home economics class at Seymour Union High school. One other interest in eggs is enhanced by the 30 leghorns she raises. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Dairy Farmers Preparing For Pesky Fly Invasion

Prolific Pest Reduces Milk Production If Not Controlled in Barns, Yards

BY JOHN E. POWERS
 Outagamie County Agent

Summer and warm weather mean fly problems on dairy farms. One pair of house flies and their off-spring can theoretically produce 191 quintillion flies in six months.

One generation of house flies can be produced in one week. Flies breed in manure and other refuse. It is advisable to remove manure from yards and pens at least once a week.

Blood-sucking flies are estimated to reduce milk production as much as 5 to 20 percent during summer months. Among these blood suckers are the horn, stable, horse and deer flies and the mosquito.

Six Safe Controls

The Federal Food and Drug administration lists six materials as safe for fly control on milking dairy animals. These materials are safe from the standpoint of not contaminating the milk. The materials listed are: Pyrethrins, Piperonyl Butoxide, Allethrin, MGK - 264, R-11, and Tabutrex. The efficiency of some of these materials is not well known.

Information and recommendations from the University of Wisconsin suggest Pyrethrins plus Piperonyl Butoxide. These materials should be mixed in proportions of one part Pyrethrins to 10 parts Piperonyl Butoxide.

It can be purchased in a concentrated form which is used in barn fogging equipment; however, other material can be used in handplunger sprayers and knapsack sprayers.

Satisfactory Barn Fogging

Barn fogging has proven to be satisfactory and gives all purpose control on dairy cattle and in the barn. Fogging can do three jobs at once: control flies in the barn, control flies on cattle, and, give cattle protection in the pasture. It is not necessary to spray walls and ceilings with additional chemicals.

Mixing of residual sprays for walls and ceilings with a wall-whitening agent is not as effective in house fly control as when the material is applied separately to the wall. Dairy barn and hog house walls and ceilings should be sprayed with either Diazinon or Malathion. Malathion is also safe for treating poultry houses but Diazinon is not.

For cattle not in milk on pasture three methods of control are recommended. Spray every two or three weeks by thoroughly wetting each animal

Wife Writes Thanks For Husband's Ticket

Tulsa, Okla. — County Atty. J. Howard Edmondson is accustomed to letters from irate citizens but he got the surprise of his life when he read a letter from the wife of a traffic offender.

The wife thanked officials for arresting her husband and noted it was the "cheapest insurance I have that my husband will return home safely." She added that every traffic ticket reminded her truck-driver husband "he has been flirting with death."

with one or two quarts of spray. Materials recommended are Toxaphene, Malathion and Methoxychlor. Calves less than one month old should not be sprayed.

The second method is to let the cattle treat themselves with a treading sprayer. Locate the sprayer so cattle must go through it for water, salt or feed. A spray containing 0.5 percent Pyrethrins plus 5 percent Piperonyl Butoxide is effective.

The other method is to let the cattle treat themselves with a cable backrubber. This cable should be located where animals will use it and can be treated with either 5 percent Toxaphene or DDT oil solution. It is necessary to treat the cable three or four times each summer.

LIVESTOCK WANTED

We need cattle, calves, and meat type hogs.

Our trucks pick up cattle and hogs every day. No trucking or shipping charges.

Calves and sows bought on Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

Farmers bringing in their own livestock can bring it in Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday Forenoon.

Question of Influence

Few Efforts to 'Buy' Support Of Officials, Senators Agree

BY SEN. PAUL H. DOUGLAS

Washington — A legislator or high administrative official is exposed to more temptations in the course of a month than the average citizen faces in his lifetime. For not only must he make a multitude of decisions on measures which are of tremendous importance to large groups of people, but he is also being constantly appealed to in individual cases. It is his job to be informed on all these matters and to decide intelligently, humanely and in the public interest.

In doing so he must of necessity listen with an open mind to the proponents and opponents of every measure. That is not only his duty, but it is their right. For the right of petition is expressly guaranteed by the first amendment to the constitution.

Hints Often Used

But many groups go beyond this. They seek to get the public official under obligation to them so that out of gratitude and a sense of reciprocity he will decide in their favor. To effect this, many under the guise of good-fellowship will seek to offer him food, drink, and entertainment. As testimonials of their esteem and friendship they will offer him presents, which will increase in size if the public official develops the habit of accepting them. While crude offers of money will seldom be made, hints of future profitable connections are often held out.

If one adds to all this, the fact that one's friends sometimes turn out to be one's worst tempters and that all this takes place under strain and the requirements of speed, it is a wonder to me that public officials on the whole do so well. Not only is the general level of political behavior far higher than the average citizen's, but I am also convinced that it is higher, on the whole, than the ethics of selling and many other features of business life such as expense accounts.

Parties Not to Blame

Recent developments should have taught everyone that when slips do occur they are not the characteristic of any one political party, but of erring human nature, and that those who are most merciless in their criticism of others frequently fail to impose on themselves the same standards which they demand of others.

After nearly 20 years of experience in political life, I venture to suggest a few simple rules which I think will be helpful both to public officials and those who now seek to seduce them. I do this without any sense of self-righteousness or any reflection upon others.

1. Do not accept expensive presents. It is helpful to have a more or less definite and

In articles written for the Associated Press, two senators here discuss the question of "influence," which is again a burning issue in Washington because of the Sherman Adams case.

Sen. Douglas, Illinois Democrat, is a scholar in politics. A former professor of economics at Chicago University, he is a member of what is often called his party's liberal wing.

Sen. Capehart, Indiana Republican, was a well-known manufacturer of phonograph and radio equipment before winning a senate place in 1944. Like Douglas he serves on powerful senate committees.

modest limit at which one draws the line. Any limit may seem mechanical and slightly ridiculous, but it saves time and strain in making decisions and prevents one from going too far. I personally set the limit at $250, and do not accept any present worth more than that. This does not mean that I accept every present worth less than $250. For where it seems to have any connection with what I have done, I reject it.

Pay Own Way

2. Do not accept expensive entertainment at the hands of others, pick up the check your share of the time, and keep away from the cocktail and free meal circuit.

3. Divest yourself of sources of income which might create a conflict between your personal interest and the public interest. If you are a lawyer, don't accept fees or retainers from parties which want legislation or administrative favors. If possible, distribute your investment trusts so that your private income is not dependent upon a few specific sources. If you lecture, don't accept fees from groups which are sponsoring legislation or seeking administrative rulings.

4. A legislator has the right to approach administrators when he believes rulings have been unduly delayed or are unjust. But he should not dictate or threaten, and it is wise to keep out of tax and criminal cases, unless gross injustice is being done. Similarly administrators should not try to pressure legislators.

5. Space prevents me from dealing with perhaps the most vexatious problem of all, namely, the financing of political campaigns. This is likely to continue to be a relative morass until large numbers of citizens assume the responsibility for supporting the parties and candidates of their choice.

'Dropped Stomach' Is Not a Serious, Unusual Condition

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 25 years old and am very worried. It seems there is always something wrong with me. For the last few years anyway."

"Recently my family doctor made some fluoroscopes and X-rays and told me my stomach is over than it should be. I want to believe him but am so worried and scared that I might have ulcers or a cancer. Could my stomach being lower cause a burning and pain all over my stomach?"

—B.W.
You're just bound and determined to look for the worst aren't you? Well I was 25 once and as I remember it I was sure (even with or maybe because of, my medical training) that I had several absolutely hopeless diseases. Pretty soon I became so concerned with unimportant matters that I forgot to worry. And here I still am.

The "dropped stomach" is known as visceroptosis and all that means is that the organ is somewhat lower than average. It is most likely in the tall, sometimes flat chested individual or the person with small frame and lean muscles.

The fact that your stomach is low doesn't mean much — any more than having unduly long legs, or big ears or long, narrow feet.

Digestive Symptoms

It's true, however, that those with visceroptosis are likely to have colons that are low, too. Net result: a tendency toward a variety of digestive symptoms, chief of which is constipation and its attendant distress. The muscles of the abdomen and entire intestinal tract tend to be of rather poor, tone, and these people are likely to be tired and hence avoid regular brisk exercise which is what they need to pep up and tone those muscles.

There isn't any particular tendency for these people to have cancer or ulcers oftener than anybody else, including me.

The best answer to the "dropped stomach" is getting used to a very simple, very sensible habit of toning up the system with regular eating, balanced meals, exercise, proper posture.

Abdominal Support

Occasionally (consult your family doctor on this) some abdominal support may be helpful, but don't just go buy a foundation garment just because of this remark. Do so only if your physician thinks it will help.

You can with some simple and rather common situation like this: worry yourself half to death if you don't know and remember what I've just said. You can even fret yourself into believing you have cancer or something else.

In which case you can take your choice. If you let your nerves overrule your brain, you may be perfect bait for a cancer quack who will give you a phony test, say you "have cancer," and charge you $800, less or more, for a "cure" that doesn't mean a thing. Or you can save money, and your peace of mind which is even more important by realizing that there are thousands of people just like you in the more than having unduly long X-rays, and so on, and told you the plain unvarnished truth. Now it's up to you to work instead of worrying, and start enjoying life.

Bowed Legs

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any method these days of treating bowed legs?" B.S.
No. Once the bones are formed in a given shape, that way they stay.

members of the congress and administrative offices even though they admittedly are seeking something for a given group, a given industry or a given philosophy.

Helps Get Facts

My own experience has been that the so-called professional lobbyist is invaluable to a member of the congress. One of the most difficult tasks for a member of the congress is to obtain the facts of a given situation so that he may be better equipped to cast his vote on the right side.

Again, the duty of a member of congress is to listen to both sides—and both sides of most issues are represented—and on the basis of their "influence" arguments, to make up his own mind on what is the statesman-like thing to do.

So these generally are the two types of what have been referred to as "influence." I am sure both types are exerted upon members of the executive branch of the government as well as the legislative branch.

Actually, the same code of conduct which should, in my opinion, govern an elected or appointed official is not at variance with the rules of good citizenship which govern a man in his private business or his private life. Real honesty is the keynote.

Gifts of Appreciation

Taxpayers, lobbyists and others are appreciative — and so are the people they represent — and often times they express that appreciation in the form of token gifts at Christmas time, or on birthdays, etc. The test of whether these token gifts of appreciation should be accepted is:

"Is this for something specific I have done? Or, is it an expression of appreciation for the fact that a representative, or a senator has done a good job generally or simply that he is a good friend?"

That decision always has been an easy one for me because in the almost 14 years I have been in the senate there never has been a single instance in which I had reason to believe that a gift—and the few I have received have been in the simple token class — was tendered to me in payment for a specific act.

Taxpayers are entitled to my help as a senator. They are en-

PSC Chairman Explains Policy For Irrigation

Legislature Studying Law Revisions Hears Discussion of Method

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The chairman of the Wisconsin public service commission has explained here how that regulatory agency is handling water irrigation permits at a time of increasing conflict between agricultural and recreational interests concerned about river and stream water.

George Steinmetz, chairman of the commission, elaborated the procedure at a meeting of the interim committee studying revisions of the state's water use laws on behalf of the legislature which is expected to consider that subject at its next session.

Governing Factors

The commission gives "great weight" to the advice of the technicians of the state conservation department in water diversion cases, he said, but it does not necessarily follow the recommendations of those specialists.

The issuance of a permit is dependent upon the size of the stream, the amount of water proposed to be taken, its biologically important, also, from officers of the executive branch. Certainly they must never approach us on the basis of buying help. Again, I repeat, nobody ever has so approached me.

Members of the congress and public servants from the top to the bottom echelon are human beings. As such, it is inevitable that some will make mistakes. My experience in almost 14 years down here is that "in-casts by the Soviets," be it "downright dishonesty" — act of and far between. Of course, one such act is one too many and anybody who violates personal honesty should be promptly and severely dealt with.

and the demonstrated public interest in the water, he said. "We feel this way," he elaborated. "The legislature set up this procedure for granting permits for irrigation. If the legislature had wanted to deny all trout stream diversion permits, it would have said so."

Steinmetz said his commission gives notice to the conservation department on all diversified applications and that his engineers and conservation department biologists freely and cheerfully exchange information informally.

He said he believed the present requirements are adequate for the protection of the public interest in water use.

The volume of irrigation permit applications has been growing and especially in the sandy regions of central Wisconsin. As the diversion practices have grown, the tension between wildlife conservation and agricultural organizations has increased.

Red Censorship Increasing, Says Federal Official

New Orleans — Soviet censorship of dispatches by foreign correspondents in Russia has become increasingly severe in recent weeks, a state department official said Tuesday.

Andrew Berding, assistant secretary of state for public affairs, said some recent news stories have been delayed, mutilated or completely deleted by the Moscow censor.

"We believe that secrecy can lead only to misunderstanding, to an increase in tensions," Berding said in a talk prepared for the annual convention of the American Association of Civilian International.

Takes Two Formulas

Recalling that the United States has suggested that the question of censorship, including jamming of foreign broadcasts by the Soviets, be discussed at a possible summit conference, Berding said: "We regret that the Soviet government now has decided to strengthen the barriers it has erected against a free flow of information."

Ceylon Out to Woo Foreign Capital

Colombo, Ceylon — The government of Ceylon made new overtures Tuesday to foreign private capital.

Opening a new parliamentary session, Gov. Gen. Sir Oliver Goonetilleke pledged there would be no nationalization of foreign enterprises for 10 years and repatriation of foreign capital will not be hindered.

His speech was written by Premier Solomon Bandaranaike's cabinet to outline its program. Goonetilleke also said the government would soon introduce legislation for the "reasonable use" of the Tamil language. The government had previously bowed to demands from the Sinhalese majority that their language be the only official tongue. This touched widespread communal violence between the Sinhalese and Tamils, the latter Ceylon's biggest minority, and the government finally had to proclaim a state of emergency five weeks ago.

Uncle Ray Interesting but Unpopular Bat Discussed by Coffman

BY RAMON COFFMAN

For one reason or another, bats have failed to become popular animals. They are interesting animals but seldom receive praise.

Q. Is it true that bats become tangled in the hair of women?

A. That is an old tale but never have I heard of an actual case of this kind. If any reader has observed such an event, I should like to receive a letter from him. Eye witness accounts would be of value to science.

The bat uses his built-in radar system when he flies.

Q. Are bats blind?

A. Some persons use the expression "as blind as a bat," but bats are able to see.

Tests have proved that bats have "built-in radar systems." They give forth twittering, high-frequency sounds. The sounds strike an object, then bounce back to the ears of the bat giving it warning. Even when its eyes are covered with cloth a bat can avoid bumping into a wire or other obstacle.

Q. How large are bats?

A. They differ widely in size. Most of them are small having bodies about the size of mice. Even a small bat, however, has a pair of good-sized wings.

Q. Do bats have the true power of flight?

A. Yes. They are the only furry animals with such power. We speak of flying squirrels, to be sure, but flying squirrels glide through the air. Bats fly by flapping their wings. They rise from a certain position, then may make a flight of hundreds of feet.

The flight of a bat tends to be jerky and awkward. A bat lacks the flying skill which is usual among birds, but at time it makes fairly good speed.

Radio Reports Second Withdrawal of Chinese Troops From N. Korea

Tokyo — P — Peiping radio today announced that the second stage of the withdrawal of Chinese troops from North Korea will start July 11.

The broadcast said by Aug. 20 another 100,000 troops would be pulled back. This would leave an estimated 170,000 Chinese soldiers in North Korea.

In the first stage of the withdrawal between March 15 and April 25, 80,000 troops were supposed to have been pulled out.

Then they snuffed their way through open doors at both banks, but found nothing.

Vice presidents of the two banks were summoned. They checked and found nothing amiss.

Then a patrolman spotted an open circuit breaker fuse on an overhead power line at the rear of the banks. Bert Mills, an employee of Tucson Gas, Electric Light and Power company, then gave this explanation of the blast.

Some birds used light strands of copper wire to build a nest in the circuit breaker. A breeze apparently blew the loose ends of the copper wires against the high tension wires, setting off a 14,400 volt blast.

The birds and the nest couldn't be found after the explosion.

Savings Set at All-Time Record
 Washington—(AP)—Americans have more money salted away in savings accounts, government bonds, and insurance equities than ever before in history.
 The federal home loan bank board reported Monday that such savings totaled more than $268 billion at the end of March. Additions to savings during the first three months of the year were $5,583,000,000 for an annual rate of about $22,300,000,000.
 This annual rate topped actual savings in the record year 1944 by a few thousand dollars.
 Nearly 60 per cent of the net gain in the first quarter was in thrift deposits in commercial and mutual savings banks. Life insurance reserves accounted for 20 per cent of the increase. Further declines in U. S. savings bonds and postal savings partially offset gains in savings and loan associations and credit unions.

Chides Cancer Society For Ignoring Research
 Dallas—(AP)—While cigarette smoke wafted up from the audience, the American Cancer society's Dallas unit Sunday was chided "for flaunting the million dollars spent on the study of lung cancer."
 "Nothing makes me angrier than to watch a person take a puff," Dr. Robert J. Samp, of the cancer research staff at the University of Wisconsin Medical center said, "and smile and say 'Well, if I'm gonna go, it's a wonderful way to go.'"
 "He will go, all right, and there's an excellent possibility the way will not be wonderful," he said.
 "If we active workers ignore our own research, who can we hope to save?" he asked.

Record Market Has Rich Supply Of Classics for Hi-Fi Patrons

BY L. J. Kramp
 Works by Brahms and by Strauss—both Richard and Johann—and a set of the four Schumann symphonies are among new records attracting classical hi-fi fans. There is also a superb Saint-Saens organ symphony, a pair of Mozart piano concertos, and Beethoven chamber music of special value.
 Brahms' Fourth symphony is another in an Angel series by Otto Klemperer and the Philharmonic orchestra. Like the first three, it is excellent. It is the best Fourth since the Mercury Paray version.
 Pianist Emil Gilels and Fritz Reiner and the Chicago Symphony have produced a majestic Brahms Concerto No. 2 for RCA Victor. The Russian's surging boldness is translated into grand sound.
 Two Versions
 Eugene List romantically plays two Brahms sonatas for piano and Eudice Shapiro records three for violin in reward of Otto Klemperer and the Philharmonic orchestra. Like the first three, it is excellent. It is Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel," long a favorite for hi-fi rigs, emerges in two new and well-recorded versions. One is by Artur Rodzinski with the London Philharmonic for Westminster; the other by George Szell and the Cleveland orchestra for Epic. Both are backed with "Don Juan" but the Epic also includes "Death and Transfiguration," making it the better buy for quantity if not for quality.
 The Szell-Epic combination also offers Haydn's Symphonies 97 and 99 in quality approaching the Scherchen-Westminster versions two years ago. Good album buys are the 2-disc Schumann "Four Symphonies" by Sir Adrian Boult and the Philharmonic Promenade orchestra for Westminster, and the 4-disc set of Johann Strauss family "Vienna Dances" by Anton Paulk and the Vienna State Opera orchestra for Vanguard. The latter includes four discs of delightful waltzes, polkas, marches and gallops.
 Vanguard also offers a sparkling piano "ramble" by Otto Schulhof through about 80 Strauss melodies in a rhythmic single disc.
Piano Discs
 Piano lovers looking for new Gershwin records will strike it rich in two debuts on Westminster discs, by the Utah Symphony and pianist Reid Nibley under conductor Maurice Abravanel, or "Rhapsody in Blue," "An American in Paris," and "Piano Concerto in F."
 Mercury's consistently fine recording of organ music is demonstrated again in Saint Saens' "Symphony No. 3" by organist Marcel Dupre and the Detroit symphony under Paul Paray. This is tremendous sound with a heaven-storming organ climax that is a challenge to any hi-fi rig.
 For such uses, a non-classical disc by Audio-Fidelity may be preferred. It is Leon Berry's "Giant Wurlitzer Pipe Organ."

Actress Kathy Grant—Mrs. Bing Crosby in private life—is back at work. She faces a microphone this time instead of cameras as she plays the voice of an Oriental princess for a feature cartoon, "Magoo's Arabian Nights." Actor Jim Backus, creator of the voice of Magoo, is shown recording for the cartoon which is slated for release early next year. (AP Wirephoto)

Professional Woman Used to Ride Horse As School Teacher
 Roanoke, Va.—(AP)—Mrs. Virginia B. Scott, Roanoke's 1958 "Business and Professional Woman of the Year," says the first year she taught school the children came in covered wagons and she rode a horse.
 "I loved every minute of it," she said. But, lest she appear an ancient, she said this was only 25 years ago at Grassy Creek school in the North Carolina mountains.

Car Industry Must Keep Style Major Sales Factor in a Utility Product

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY
(Copyright, 1958)

General Motors has issued an information handbook which is very enlightening about our economy. For instance, although it is generally assumed that the growth of sales has been steadily upward, the figures show that since 1938, it has been zig-zag, back and forth, but beginning with 1948, there was a sudden spurt of buying, running like this:

Sokolsky

1948 — $4,000,000,000
1949 — $5,000,000,000
1950 — $7,000,000,000
1951 — $7,000,000,000
1952 — $7,000,000,000
1953 — $10,000,000,000
1954 — $9,000,000,000
1955 — $12,000,000,000
1956 — $10,000,000,000
1957 — $10,000,000,000

Obviously 1955 was an exceptional year for the automobile business, but that is not readily explained because it was the year when the recession was beginning to make itself felt in certain industries.

The immediate problem that faces the automobile industry is how to continue to keep style as the major sales factor for a utility product. In a word, to continue the enormous sale of American cars to the American population, it is essential to establish standards by which a car becomes old-fashioned within a year and obsolete within two years.

But the American car is a well-constructed vehicle that lasts many years after a primary and secondary sale. The actual improvements in the operating machinery can be very few and they grow less significant to the motorist each year.

Taste Is Factor

So it comes to a matter of styling, and styling is taste—taste in shape, decorations, color, interiors, etc. When taste, rather than necessity is the factor, purchases become postponable.

It used to be said, say 20 years ago, that it was impossible to saturate a market for consumption goods in a high standard, capitalist country. That was an argument against communism and other forms of socialism. Depressions, it was said, were caused not by excessive production but by underconsumption. The theory was that industry could continue to expand in every field as long as the consumer found money to buy goods.

But 1956 was a good year economically and despite all the talk about depressions, 1957 and 1958 are fairly good years, although not up to 1955. Why does the resistance to buying? The answer lies not in figures but in the mysteries of the human mind. Nobody has advocated not buying. Nobody conducted a campaign against buying. Nobody suggested that this was the time to go slow. But he like the efficiency flat, there was an atmosphere and a climate and an attitude in 1957 that it was smart to delay but not ornamental.

Therefore the small car becomes popular. It is most often without much taste in design in contrast to the stylized large cars. It is cheap to operate and does not require much room for parking or garaging. Already some American manufacturers are making small cars and before long that will be a vogue too particularly in the larger cities to which our population has moved. It will be the time to go slow. But he like the efficiency flat, there was an atmosphere and a climate and an attitude in 1957 that it was smart to delay but not ornamental.

Promoted to Captain in the United States army reserves was Frank B. Diehn, 315 S. Joseph street, Kimberly, left, above. Reading the announcement of the promotion is Lt. Col. Talbot Peterson, 1525 S. Outagamie street, right, executive officer of the 274th infantry regiment stationed at the Menasha armory. Capt. Diehn is company commander of the tank company, 274th infantry regiment. Honor Telephone Company Employee for Long Service

Frank S. Briske, 325 East Pershing street, was honored today by the Wisconsin Telephone company on the 30th anniversary of his start with the company. Briske is commercial supervisor in charge of markets in the company's Appleton division commercial office.

In recognition of his 30 years of service, the company presented Briske with a diamond service emblem. The presentation was made by Donald C. Bradley, state division commercial manager for the company, at a luncheon this noon attended by Briske's co-workers.

Briske began his work with the company as a plant record clerk at Milwaukee in 1928. He held a variety of plant and commercial department assignments before assuming his present responsibilities in 1956. Briske is a director of the Appleton District Credit union and a past president and member of the Fox Valley council of the Telephone Pioneers of America, an organization of men and women who have been engaged in telephone work for twenty-one or more years.

Alaska Helped by Changes in South

New Guard Takes Leadership, No Longer Fights Bill for Statehood

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington — Alaska, which so long has been knocking wistfully on the door, appears to be brought at last into the union of the states.

There are indications that the senate is going to change its mind—a heavy convulsive process in itself—and put Alaska's star into the flag as its 49th. The house has already voted to do so.

This prospective extension of the continental United States to the hard, icy underbelly of the Soviet Union no doubt will have debatable strategic meanings.

Its already visible political significance is the point of this piece. For what is unfolding as the union expands northward is a quickening rear-march of the deep southerners.

As recently as a year ago there would have been only the barest possibility that any Alaskan statehood bill could pass the senate. There would have been no possibility whatever of passage without a violent southern filibuster—or a deliberate time-killing maneuver to prevent a vote—that might have hardly been worth the cost.

Manifest Destiny
But this time there is almost certainly not going to be any real southern filibuster. The more traditional southerners have already put their heads together. They have gloomily concluded that they cannot successfully launch an all-out attack against what now seems to be the manifest destiny of the Alaskans to have a state capitol and all the rest.

What has so altered the outlook in so short a time? The answer is that most of the southerners themselves—their basic attitudes, their basic understanding of their own power limitations—have greatly altered.

This process, with its immense implications for the future, began last summer in the great debate over civil rights. Then, the more modern southerners at first agreed to examine—and at length to grant—federal enforcing powers in this field.

Though these powers were deemed by northern all-out civil rights people to be inadequate, they were still of a kind that had been unthinkable unacceptable below the Mason-Dixon line through the eight decades that had gone before.

Coaxed by Johnson
All but a handful of the southerners were coaxed into this withdrawal from their old position of absolute and total opposition by some of their own people, chiefly Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, party leader.

But the process was powerfully and probably decisively aided by western liberals like Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Frank Church of Idaho. These westerners understood, as many did not, that the real question was not whether an ideal or even a very good civil rights bill was to be had. The vital point was to have any kind of civil rights bill at all.

For any kind of action, as they foresaw, would open the way to a gradual chipping, a slow fissuring, of the old southern political monolith that for nearly a century had held an ultimate veto simply by reason of its utter unity of purpose and action.

The alliance of the new south and west sensed, in short, that a historic opportunity had come. This was the opportunity to begin to bring the south, with all its backward-looking ideas but also with all its political grace and skill, back into the United States of America.

Forward Movement

Thus the story now comes up to date. For Alaska's foreshadowed victory is an instance of the movement forward of the new south and the falling backward of the old, obstructionist south.

Having found through the civil rights accommodation a means for doing business with the southern moderates, the western liberals and other more-or-less liberals have found, too, a means for progressively isolating the southern ultra-conservatives.

The existence of this new point of reasonable contact is proving useful in other ways. For an illustration, influential Alaskans have privately indicated to the moderates a reassuring belief that if Alaska does indeed become a state, she will not straightway send two extremist senators here. This has helped to weaken opposition to statehood. Most of all, however, it has become possible because southern leadership is in a phase of a changing of the guard from the old to the new.

Auntie Gaines to Take To 'Shawts' on Her Retirement at 107

Concord, N. C. — "Aunt" Pinky Gaines says she's retiring and heading for the beach, even though "I look like a fool wearin' them shawt britches."

That was her plan when, at the age of 107, she received her first social security check through the efforts of friends who established her birth-date of 1851.

The Negro woman, who was 14 "when the war that freed the black folks was over," said the time had come to quit her chores at Cabarrus Memorial hospital here because of "stiff knees."

Dust Storms Measured By Two Researchers

Atlantic City, N. J. — Dust storms can be created with winds of only 15 miles an hour, two researchers report.

Frank E. Adley and Wallace E. Gill, of the General Electric company in Richland, Wash., said dust counts ranged from 400,000 particles per cubic foot of air at a two mile an hour wind to about 24 million particles in a 16 mile an hour wind.

Results of their tests were reported to a recent meeting of the industrial health conference.
